Dedication

We, the first graduating class of

dedicate, the first Yearbook of the school to God, our Father, and Mary, our Mother, and to our Earthly Parents--to whom we owe our gratitude for the many blessings enjoyed throughout the days of our high school career.

APPRECIATION

We, the Saint Ferdinand High School

Class of 1954

wish to express our deep appreciation to Father David, our Superintendent, to Sister Frederica, our Principal, and to all the members of the High School Faculty.

May God and His Blessed Mother reward
your patience with us!

His Excellency, the Most Reverend Henry J. Grimmelsman, S. T. D., Bishop of the Catholic Diocese of Evansville, Indiana, Conferring the first Diploma of Saint Ferdinand High School to Charles Altman.

Faculty

The word "Faculty" is written in a black, Gothic-style font. The initial letter 'F' is highly decorative, featuring intricate floral and scrollwork flourishes that extend both upwards and downwards from the letter's stem. The rest of the word "aculty" is in a simpler, bold Gothic script.

'MIRROR of the FUTURE'

The year, 1964, is well under way, and September is knocking on our doors. Schools are taking up, and many girls and boys are unhappy about the whole situation. But believe me, there are a lot of grads who wish they were marching back to St. Ferdinand High to start their school years anew.

By the way, I believe I had better introduce myself. I am a member of the first graduating class at S.F.H.S. Let me see, that was back in 1954. Ten long years! About three months ago, I made an effort to locate my former classmates. I am happy to say I can give you a few details on each one, and I know you will be interested.

A few have remained in the Ferdinand community and have become very successful. Two of the wealthiest men in town are Ronald and Earl Klueh. They are the owners of the "Diamond Horseshoe". You would never believe it, but that exquisite casino was formerly known as "Carlies". Ronald has a Mrs. too, but Earl just isn't ready to settle down. This casino is also the favorite dancing quarters for many people from the surrounding territories. If you ever have the chance to listen to the enjoyable music their orchestra gives you, you might give the bandleader a second glance. Look familiar? He should. That's Kenny Oser and his sax. Didn't think he could do it? Well, he didn't surprise me. By the way, next week they are having a special stage show. Earl and Ron finally booked the number one comedian. You remember Ernie Knust? Better known in the entertainment world as Mr. Television. When you visit the "Diamond Horseshoe", you can have a picture to put with your souvenirs. One of the best photographers in Indiana will be there with her camera every night. Carolyn Wollenmann will snap the pictures, but they will be sent to you from Mr. Chase, her boss. A good time is had by all at the casino, but we display our best conduct. Bouncers are on hand to show anyone to the door. And you better watch your step, because once Shirley Brecht throws you out, you stand a very slim chance of coming back. Everyone in the town of Ferdinand seems to be pleased with their entertainment center--all except Father Augustine Temple, better known to his classmates as Albert. He is the new pastor of St. Ferdinand Parish.

Speaking about music and the entertainment world, do you remember Mary Jo Rupprecht? She has really climbed to the top as the star of the "Grand Ole Opry". It would be a real treat, I know, if you went to Nashville just to hear her yodel. And you would have the opportunity to see Joe Becher while you are there. He is the tobacco auctioneer for the company that sponsors the "Grand Ole Opry". And there is little danger of the company going out of business as long as Josie is around. Two fellows you know well have stepped into the spotlight and have taken the place of Liberace and his brother George. Dennis Durcholz is the "master of the keys", and Jerome Brinkman handles the violin and maracas on Latin numbers. You might be surprised to learn that Albert Kitten has replaced Johnnie Ray. These friends of ours really had their talent well hidden during our school days.

If you are a pretty steady listener of the much-expanded radio station WITZ, you have no doubt heard "Spins with Sports". The disc-jockey is our own Leon Wendholt. If you enjoy Sammy Kay's music, you will enjoy Doc's radio show. He keeps you up to date on sports news too. When driving to WITZ, keep your eyes open and you will see a huge building on the right side of the road with the sign "Wrecker Service". The garage is owned by Sylvia Krampe. Why Sibbie went into that business, we don't know. And another big mystery is why she specializes in wrecked Dodges.

They have made a few changes at our Alma Mater in these past years. Two girls from our class have taken over the job of cooking, and the students are well pleased with the meals. Shirley Fischer is the head cook and a steady listener of WITZ. Rose Marie Mattingly is our other "Betty Crocker".

Some of our classmates have even made headlines. Our little Aleen Begle is a candidate for "Mother of the Year". She was the first in our class to take the big step and has the cutest children with the biggest brown eyes you ever saw. Now this is really NEWS! "Mr. Universe of 1964", believe it or not, is Wayne Seufert. He also has his own muscle-developing school. What results! Another headliner is our "Miss America", which happens to be Virlee Waninger. It certainly is surprising what one can do when out on his own. Turn to the sports page for a moment, and let's see what Notre Dame is doing this season. Well, what do you know, the picture of their "All-American" tackle is none other than Leo Seckinger. Further down the page, there are some details on Ronald Greulich, who succeeded Gorgeous George, the famous wrestler. Ronald is equally popular. Here is an article about the Kentucky Derby. Place your bets on either Lazy Bones, jockeyed by Kenny Peters, or on Slow But Sure, jockeyed by Donny Knust. The race between the two will be mighty close, but the jockeys, as we know, are very dependable.

Now let's turn to the more intellectual side of our class. Frank Becher has a bookkeeping job at the White House in Washington. They say the President couldn't do without him. He was such a whiz in bookkeeping--if I remember correctly??? While in Washington, I attended a political convention which was called to discuss the World Dictator, Rose Mary Egler. She has the capitol in a stew. The principal speaker at the meeting was Norbert Begle, whose speech held everyone's attention for the entire forty-five minutes. Remember Pat Fischer? He has been very wise in choosing his vocation. He is a Trappist Monk at Gethsemane. Hats off to Pat,

Now let's tour to California, and check on the rest of our class. David Schnell, who has his headquarters in Los Angeles, is the striving president of the Lonely Hearts Club. His aim is to insure happiness to all club members. That's a big order, Dave. Also at Los Angeles, testing mattresses for "Heavenly Rest Mattress Company", is Charles Altman. There is only one drawback, Chop sleeps constantly, and they have a time moving him from one mattress to another.

While in Los Angeles, you can look up two of our former classmates. Jack Hauser and his Mrs., Geraldine Mehling. Jack has to his credit a very well-known modeling agency. If you remember, he always did have a way with women. But he sure has a time with his wife, he's always paying doctor bills. Seems as though every time she opens a can, which is pretty often, (only for every meal), she injures herself. There may be a turn for the better soon, now she has invented a modern can opener. What a girl!

We also had a glamour girl in our class, Miss Clara Mae Ubelhor by name. She certainly made the grade in Hollywood succeeding a certain blond. We need not mention any names in this case. Her chauffeur and constant companion is another well-remembered classmate, Alice Helming. But don't get alarmed, Clara Mae has a Cadillac that doesn't jerk, "no matter who drives it". By the way, Alice is no longer a Helming, but Mrs. Al Urbanski. Now don't tell me you were surprised.

I'm sure everyone will recognize the co-star in her next movie. You will remember him as Claude Vaal, but the Hollywood folk know him as Claude Sexton. He took Gene Nelson's place in movie land. Why, he's even better than Fred Astaire. Clark Gable also lost out when Eugene Tretter hit the movies. He is also starring in this movie. You will probably all want to see this picture which is up for the Academy Award. The name of the picture is "WHY". But no questions asked, we all agree that our class is something to marvel at and to be proud of, and believe me, we are. (Be seeing you?)

CLASS HISTORY

September, 1951, marks an era in the history of St. Ferdinand Parish, Ferdinand, Indiana. A dream had really come true. Now, Ferdinand had a Catholic High School for both girls and boys. Heretofore, the boys had no choice but to attend public high school in the vicinity; whereas, the girls had the privilege of a Catholic education at the Academy of the Immaculate Conception, the "Castle on the Hill".

That first year, we were a very small group, only eighty-six pupils in the 9th and 10th grades. Father David, the pastor and prime mover in the high school project, was and is now Superintendent of the School. Sister Priscilla was principal; and they, with Fathers Edwin and Prosper, Sisters Aurelia, Aquina, and Josepha, Mr. La Grange, and Mrs. Marie Senninger made up the faculty.

The Freshman class was a new high school group, but the Sophomore class was different. All of us had been in another high school before. There were thirty-four of us: ten from Dale High; eleven from Huntingburg; two from Holland; and eleven from the A.I.C. Among other things, we soon realized that here we were beginning our sophomore year in a brand-new high school to be upperclassmen for three whole years. That really was something to think about. There were many ups and downs that first year, but the school survived and so did we.

The second, our Junior year, brought five newcomers to join us: one from Huntingburg; two from Birdseye (Schnellville); one from Jasper High; and one from Our Lady of the Angels Academy in Cincinnati. Three of the original members had dropped out, leaving thirty-six Juniors for 1952-53.

The faculty remained much the same with Mr. LeClere added for Industrial Arts and assistant in Athletics; Father Ambrose replaced Father Prosper, who was to attend St. Louis University to work for higher degrees. Commerce was added to the curriculum with Sister Mary Carmin as teacher; and Girls' Athletics, with Miss Scott, Director. To those of us who had attended the AIC in our Freshman year, our new Principal, Sister Frederica, was not new but a friend of former school days.

We had outgrown our sophomore antics, and tried to be as sensible and sedate as Juniors usually are; but when we look back now, it seems as if we must have been a "headache" to the authorities a great part of the time. This year will be remembered especially as the year during which we received our Class Rings, Sweaters, and Jackets. The school program seemed so much richer and fuller this year because of additional courses. There were 147 pupils this year, almost twice the number of the previous year.

Then came that great event in the life of a high school student--I'M A SENIOR NOW! If numbers give strength, ours is a strong class; for of the thirty-six Juniors, thirty-five returned to continue striving toward the goal--a high school diploma. And, we all made it!

There was little change in the faculty this year: Mr. Courtney, whom we chose our class social sponsor; Sister Valeria (replacing Sister Kenneth), and Miss Ridenour (replacing Miss Scott), and Sister Therese were added. The enrollment now had mounted to 188, and one could easily see how the increased number of students would create additional work for our principal and teachers. There was a lot more fun, too, with so many to participate. We've been told that we made a great change for the better during our senior year.

We won honors in various contests as we went along, and we managed to have a goodly number of seniors on the High School Honor Roll each grading period. Some members of our class made it for every period--but not all. Probably the experiences that will be remembered longest are--our first Junior-Senior Prom, a truly grand affair; rehearsing and staging our senior play; our Senior Week and trip to Chicago; and last but not least, our Graduation Day. The High Mass in St. Ferdinand Church, during which we seniors in caps and gowns received Holy Communion at the altar; the dedication and crowning of our Lady; and the Commencement. God bless you all!
