FP school spirit is one class act

The student body had an opportunity to take a part in many pep sessions. Spirit Club President Lindsay Hasenour, Sara Hasenour, and Mrs. Vicki Beach worked well under pressure to entertain FP students. This year's seniors brought back the old tradition of having a senior skit. For boys' basketball every class and the teachers performed a dance and decorated their hallways to a theme they were assigned.

Seniors act out a super hero scene at the pep session.

Charles Schneider and teammates are ready to play.

Juniors thought it best to flush the opponents at basketball sectional.

Good thing these seniors aren't really cheerleaders.

Brandon and Laura decorate.

The fans in the stands were known as Ranger Rowdies.

Laura Klem treasures the meeting.

Laura Klem and Mrs. Rasche assign jobs to various people.

Student Council: your voice in action

The Student Council kept busy working on various things around school. Members spent time before Holiday Ball and Homecoming preparing and decorating. The SC conducted the Match-Maker survey and were in charge of concessions for home games. Mrs. Tara Rasche was SC sponsor. SC officers were Renee Woebkenberg, president, Nick Weyer, VP, Laura Begle, secretary, and Laura Klem treasurer.

The Student Council crew is responsible for the Holiday Ball decorations.

All Stars spread the dangers of drinking

Anna Brier and Stephanie Schneider watch as an elementary school student tries to walk a straight line with the drunk goggles on.

The All Stars went to the elementary schools to spread information and warnings about the effects of alcohol and drugs. They showed the effects of drugs on the mind by using the "Drunk Goggles." By informing the students they hoped to give them ways to refuse the use of drugs. The club also tried to inform the students of the problems that drugs and alcohol can cause in their lives. The group also tried to allow the children to have fun while learning about the serious issues of drug and alcohol use by letting them participate in the demonstrations.

Anna Brier helps a student experience the effects of drinking.

Stephanie Schneider explains the effects of drinking before experimenting with the drunk goggles.

Students Against Destructive Decisions host Red Ribbon Week

Senior Kara Brockman and Mrs. Emily Hauser address the SADD Club Members.

Students participating in Students Against Destructive Decisions sponsored the Red Ribbon Week and many other informative activities. This year Students Against Destructive Decisions was headed by its president Kara Brockman and sponsored by Mrs. Emily Hauser.

Freshmen Cassandra Berg, Emily Hildenbrand, and Dana Lindauer listen closely to Kara explaining the next SADD Project.

Peers Educating Peers teach the Jr. High about abstinence

Stanely Kessens and Michael Lamkin explain the importance of abstaining from sex.

The students who participated in this year's Peers Educating Peers promoted the good attributes of abstinence. The members made presentations to junior high students on the importance of waiting to have sex.

Michael Lamkin talks one-on-one with an eighth grader interested in the Peers Educating Peers program.

NaHoSo members keep picking up the trash

The National Honor Society completes many service projects for the school as well as the local area. Every member is required to complete a specified number of service hours in their communities before being inducted. Members can also be found cleaning the grounds around the school every Monday morning.

Nick Weyer glances at the itinerary.

Mrs. Christy Bartley checks out who came to clean.

President Nick Weyer gives his speech.

Senior Nicole Affart knows to dress warm when its cold for Monday morning clean-ups.

Natalie Weyer looks for her name on the plaque.

Juniors Brandi Weyer and Brad Bruner keep busy while waiting to begin the session at Beta Convention.

Betas have another great year

Many Betas attended the convention and several of them brought home awards.

The Beta club also held their annual spaghetti dinner and were proud to call it a success.

Jill Hopf and Lindsey Hasenour rinse dishes at the spaghetti supper.

Beta officers dole out the induction papers to new members.

Jessica L. Huff dries her hands before helping with the food.

Ms. Leslie Shobe tells Kori Wahl how to fix the salads.

Officers Michelle Welp, Megan Welp, Kelsie Williams, and Tracy Moriarity relax on the couch.

FCCLA sells spices and eats donuts

During this past year, the FCCLA club did many things. They have sold spices and hosted a costume party during Halloween for the younger kids. During FCCLA week, the members had secret pals and gave another FCCLA member a special treat everyday before revealing themselves. The club also had a breakfast for the teachers with donuts, fruit, and with orange juice and chocolate milk. For lunch, the members ate pizza from Homestead with a deluxe of assortments. For a weekend in March, some FCCLA members went to a conference in Indianapolis. Makes one want to be in FCCLA doesn't it?

Juniors Natalie Weyer, Brandi Weyer, Megan Rasche, and Alicia Daniel are having a blast during a meeting.

FFA takes a trip to West Virginia

The FFA members show off awards received at the banquet in April

Wesley Gutsell, Chad Lueken, Jarret Paulin, and Josh Lange receive fourth place at the FFA soils contest.

Junior Joe Hopf gives the Michelin Marshmallow Man a great, big hug.

The FFA Club takes a beautiful trip white water rafting in West Virginia.

The FFA went all the way to the New River in West Virginia and went white water rafting. They also went to Louisville, Kentucky, for national conference. The state conference for FFA was held in Lafayette. A team from FP won fourth in the state soils contest. Since you have to be taking agriculture to be in FFA, junior Jarret Paulin said excitedly that during class once they watched the mating rituals of rabbits. One might believe that sounds pretty interesting and different.

Academic teams use brain power

Some FP students dedicated themselves to academics outside of school hours. They were FP's academic teams: spell bowl, academic bowl, and Destination Imagination. The spell bowl team, coached by Mrs. Vicki Beach and Mr. Tom Meyer, finished third in the Blue Chip competition and second in their class at district. The team, however, missed their chance to go back to state. The academic bowl teams competed at Washington Catholic and at Vincennes in the district competition, where all the teams received third place finishes. Mrs. Sharon Gramelspacher coached both the academic bowl teams and DI. While there was only one high school DI team at FP, the team completed a successful season at state after advancing on from regional.

Juniors Annette Klem and Jena Davis help each work on their spell bowl words before their turn to spell.

Recycling club helps save the environment

The recycling club lived up to its name this year by participating in many activities. As always, they collected paper in recycling boxes that were placed throughout the school. They also collected aluminum cans and recycled them. An Earth Day picnic was held during the spring. Meals were sold to students in the commons for the price of four dollars.

Recycling president Kevin Knust gets the paper box from the guidance area.

The recycling club also collected cans this year.

These freshman girls help collect the paper boxes after school.

Sponsor Ms. Tammy Taylor explains what to do with the cans to Josh Payne.

Juniors Kevin Knust and Jena Davis search through the paper for something.

Member Amanda Patton and officer Kelsie Williams show their pride for the club.

Key Club feeds the hungry during the morning rush

This table of FP students attended Key Club convention this spring to support our school chapter.

Key Club members spent their time doing service projects and other services for the local community. They held a weekly breakfast sale. Donuts, cereal bars, and drinks were sold to students on Wednesdays.

Officers are Shalynne Mundy, Laura Begle, Andrea Meyer, and Shauna Begle

Journalism and graphic art students leave their mark on Forest Park

What you are looking at now was made possible by Journalism II and III students. It's not the only publication created by these talented FP students. They also sharpen their writing, editing, and photography skills by working on the monthly publication of The Lookout. Although Journalism I students do not work on The Tracer they do report very diligently for The Lookout that is printed by the graphic art students

Juniors Tori Beach and Kelly Schroering type up stories for the Lookout.

Journalism II students "walk the duck." Aren't they a talented bunch? It is harder than it looks my friends.

Sophomores Jenny Zoglman and Shelly Brahm fold your awesome school newspaper.

Marching Rangers place fifth in State Class D Competition

The Marching Rangers took home the fifth place trophy from the ISSMA Class D State Competition. They accomplished this with many hours of work. They placed first at the South Spencer and Castle Invationals during the season. They also received awards for Best Music and Marching at South Spencer, and best at the Heritage Hills competition. The band placed in the top five in the regionals at Jeffersonville for the first time.

Juniors Kevin Knust and Amanda Venekamp portray the lead characters Tevye and Golde.

The must see musical is Fiddler on the Roof

Fiddler on the Roof is a story about a poor dairyman, Tevye, portrayed by junior Kevin Knust, and his wife Golde, played by junior Amanda Venekamp. They try to marry off their five daughters with the help of a matchmaker, portrayed by senior Shalynne Mundy. During the middle of the story you have dancing Russians and a wedding. Three of the daughters end up getting married and one ends up being disowned. There is a mixture of comedy and drama in this musical which is a must see.

Junior Staci Welp makes senior Alex Schneider look pretty.

Junior Amanda Venekamp gives a dramatic performance.

Chorus sings at the Variety Show

The chorus has kept busy this whole year. On October 5, the chorus performed in the Variety Show hosted by the school. They ended the Variety Show with a performance of "In the Still of the Night" that was arranged by senior Mike Cummings. During second week of January, nine members went to All-State chorus. They were Laura Begle, Jessica A. Huff, Amanda Venekamp, Anna Brier, Kevin Knust, Amanda Verkamp, Hanson Hostetler, Woody Major, and Natalie Weyer. At the large festival contest, the large mixed chorus received a gold in their performance and in sight reading as well as the women's chorus.

Mr. Chuck Bradley gives an introduction to the Variety Show.

Seniors make their final "Class Act" as the class of 2003

On May 24 the 126 members of the Class of 2003 completed their final assembly as members of the Forest Park High School student body. As the band played "Pomp and Circumstance," the seniors at the end of the alphabet waited impatiently for their chance to march into the gym. Class President Nick Weyer welcomed everyone to the commencement exercises. The valedictorians were Kim Hochgesang, Jessica Huff, and Emma Lubbers. Then one by one the seniors stepped forward to receive their diplomas. After turning their tassels, the Forest Park graduates marched out of the gym into the light of a new day.

The day has finally arrived,
Where we walk down the aisle.
We've waited four long years,
And it was all worth the while.

We walk across the stage with pride,
As our parents begin to cry with happiness.
They can't believe how far we've come,
Knowing that this was a major success.

Having our ups and downs
Throughout high school career,
We stand here with our friends and classmates
And look back through the years.

We see ourselves as freshmen,
Afraid to do any wrong,
Getting into the swing of things,
The fear has long gone.

We go through each year,
Surprised it went so fast.
We are seniors now,
It's our turn at last.

We are heading into adulthood
As we move the tassel from left to right.
It was a great accomplishment for us,
Considering it was a long battle to fight.

So be proud seniors,
And hold your head up high.
This is our senior year,
The day has finally arrived.

Robby

Your memories

Class of 2004

"He may not have been the best looking or most popular, but he will always be remembered for having the biggest heart."

-- Brandi Weyer

Wrestling meant a lot to Robby. He was always asking fellow classmates to come watch him wrestle. The wrestlers always said Robby was always lightening the mood and making the team laugh. Most students will remember when he received third place at a tournament and could be seen clutching his medal at school.

"He worked as hard as he could. He liked to joke around with the guys, pick on them, and get picked on. He was good at lightening things up. When it was stressful, he would make us laugh or something."

-- Jeremy Evitts talking about wrestling

"I most admired that Robby was always in a good mood, always had a smile on his face, and always made a point to come up and talk to everyone that he saw. I will remember his eagerness to do his best every time he went up there to compete."

-- Andy Fleck

Students at Forest Park remember a lot about Robby, from his positive attitude to his smile, but the thing most people remember is seeing him in the hall running.

After the track team won the Blue Chip Conference, they gave the trophy to Robby. He led the victory lap clutching the trophy.

November 19, 1984 - December 24, 2002 ROBBY WAYNE HUFF

will last forever

Beth

Class of 2004

"She was always smiling, making the best out of the worst day. We all have our ups and downs, and Beth was truly there for us all when we needed it most."

-- Lacey Lindauer

"I will always remember how she was never shy towards anyone. She was a sweet girl, and she was funny. Everyone will miss her."

-- Alex Potter

"In the sixth grade, Beth would have sleepovers at her house. I always went to her sleepovers. They were so much fun. I can remember it like it was yesterday. Beth would still, up to this year, talk to me about 'our sixth grade sleepovers,' and we would talk about how much fun we had."

--Kyla Hopf

"It will be hard to get used to not seeing her big, beautiful smile in the hallway everyday. Every time I think of Beth, the first thing to come to my mind is her smile. Beth's smile was one of a kind, just like she was, one of a kind."

Working to better their lives

In Mrs. Paula Peter's classroom, special students worked on community-based activities and skills to better their lives. About 20 students came to Mrs. Peter's resource room for some services, but most were mainstreamed into regular classrooms for part of the day.

School year filled with excitement

As we began the 2002-2003 school year, the staff, students, parents, and community patrons anticipated a school year filled with excitement and many successes. Staff, students, and parents set high expectations for Forest Park, encouraging all students to give their best in order to accomplish the goals and successes they wished to achieve.

Shortly after the 2002-2003 school year began, these efforts began to see results, for the school year got off to a great start academically and with our fall sports teams enjoying successful seasons. Cross country teams advanced individuals and a team all the way to semi state. Next our Marching Rangers completed a successful fall marching season and returned to the RCA Dome to compete for a state championship, ending their marching season with a prestigious fifth-place finish at the state Class D marching competition. In late October, the State Department of Education released information announcing that, for the fourteenth consecutive year, Forest Park Jr.-Sr. High School had qualified as a Four Star School of Indiana, an honor reserved for the top 25 percent of the schools of Indiana. In December, Forest Park received word on our fall ISTEP scores and we were pleased to find out that 82 percent of our sophomores passed their math and 81 percent passed their language arts tests.

As the school year progressed, athletic teams continued to enjoy winning seasons and advancing in state tournament play. Several special accomplishments noteworthy of special recognition were Forest Park's Dance Team winning a first-ever state championship in Pom and second place in Dance. Our girls' track team won their eleventh consecutive track sectional. Brittney Kries placed eighth in the 200 meter dash and seventh in the 400 meter dash at the state championship track meet. Jeremy Evitts made a trip to the state wrestling finals. And, the event that excited our school and communities, our boys' basketball team was successful at semi state and played in the 2-A state championship game at Conseco Fieldhouse on March 22, 2003. Besides these outstanding accomplishments, Forest Park students excelled academically earning many special honors as they worked with their teachers to prepare themselves with the knowledge needed for successful transitions to post-secondary educational opportunities or the adult world of work.

The 2002-2003 school year also was filled with several challenges, for it was to be the year in which Forest Park implemented their Public Law 221 school improvement plan. It would be the year in which they would host visiting teams from the North Central Association and from the Southern Educational Regional Board's High Schools That Work program. The exit reports that were issued by each of the visiting teams verified the quality of professional efforts of our staff and of the quality of programs for which Forest Park wishes to be well known. It was a year filled with outstanding efforts in the classroom, on the marching field, on the dance floor, and on the athletic courts and fields. It was a year in which our staff, students, parents, and community patrons provided the support for the development of educational programming that continued the outstanding traditions of excellence of Forest Park Jr.-Sr. High School.

It was a remarkable school year and one that we are all very proud to have been a part of, and one that we are all proud to add to the outstanding history of Forest Park Jr.-Sr. High School.

Mr. Hagedorn graduates with the class of 2003

Mr. Hagedorn is known for his sense of humor and his friendly smile.

In his office, Mr. Hagedorn gets down to the business of running Forest Park.

At the close of the 2002-2003 school year, Forest Park High School said goodbye to an icon. Mr. James Hagedorn retired after 35 years in education.

He started at Forest Park as a classroom teacher and coach in 1971. Then he moved on to become the athletic director. In 1975 he became the school's assistant principal. Mr. Hagedorn has been principal at Forest Park since 1985. When asked why he decided to become a principal, he said, "I was enjoying being a classroom teacher when I was asked to consider the role. I applied because I thought that I would like the challenges associated with providing leadership to what was such a good quality school."

Sadly, this year Mr. Hagedorn decided that it was the right time for him to retire. He commented that the thing that he likes most about working at Forest Park is that he really enjoys working with young adults and helping them develop the skills to meet their immediate needs and their needs for successful futures. However, he said, "I have several other goals that I would like to accomplish before my age prevents me from doing them.

Secondly, although it is hard to step aside when you feel needed and successful, it is also the time to do it if you want to retain good memories of your career."

Assistant Principal Rick Allen and Mr. Hagedorn have been together for 20 years. Mr. Allen said, "He is an excellent principal. I will miss his experience in running our school."

Mr. Hagedorn commented that he wanted to thank the students for their support of the school and its educational philosophies. "They have allowed me to really enjoy a career that I really love."

Dane Schipp inhales his tico.

Lindsay Fleck and Emily Bromm show how pudding is made.

Molly Tretter is telling the class one of her many stories.

The foreign language classes are going on trips this summer. The German class will be visiting Germany, while the Spanish class will be visiting Mexico. The classes will be put to the test and will have to use what they learned and know.

The English classes are not going to England, but every year the senior class is privileged to study English literature. The language classes make the students more aware of the cultures around them, instead of being stuck in the same box.

Kelsie Williams and Sara Brinkman are all smiles in English class.

Mr. Tenbarga is having a discussion with the class.

Student teacher brightens up social studies area

With the economy going downhill and the threat of war with Iraq, social studies has become a topic in the news. Ms. Ellen Hendricks, Ms. Leslie Shobe, Mr. Tony Hasenour, and Ms. Marty Niehaus are the lucky ones to share their social studies knowledge here at FP. Ms. Marty Niehaus got a break from student teacher Mr. Heichelbech.

Ms. Shobe surveys her class's group work in sociology.

Student teacher, Mr. Heichelbech, grabs his U.S. History class' attention.

Math department pushes students to succeed

With technology on the rise, math has been stressed here at Forest Park. Teachers have pushed students to excel in many different areas. Math has become a subject in high demand. Many job fields have increased their math requirements. Mr.

Don Prusz, Mr. Tom Meyer, Mr. Karl Hinson, Mrs. Sharon Gramelspacher, and Mr. Jim Mehling have shared their math knowledge to FP students in the areas of business math, Algebra I and II, geometry, pre-calculus, calculus, and problem solving I and II.

Mr. Meyer takes a short break after some hardcore pre-calculus notes.

Shhh! Ted Dilger, senior needs a little peace so he can finish his test.

Alex Potter, junior, sneaks in a quick nap to regain some brain power.

Mr. Hinson basks in the sunlight, while his students slave on his geometry test.

Kori Wahl learns of a cat's anatomy in Biology II.

Science classes experiment with new teacher, dead cats

Biology II classes stunk up the junior hallway for a month while dissecting their experimental cats. Most students didn't like this task, but some thought it was cool. According to junior Brandi Weyer, "I think it's awesome. It's not every day you get to skin a cat."

The chemistry classes were graced with a semi-familiar face this year. Mrs. Karrie Wolf, a former graduate of FP, took over the job of teaching chemistry and physical science. "I love it. It has been a lot of fun. I have enjoyed every day," she said.

Jace Hasenour completes his experiment in biology.

Colin Austin uses the board.

Chad Seaton listens during chemistry.

Matt Gilmore and Marsha Klem concentrate on chemistry.

Art students have several options for creativity

This year the art department offered a little bit more variety. Instead of the usual basic art classes, the department was split into several categories. Painting, drawing, sculpting, and ceramics are just a few of what was offered. Though the new schedule may cause some of the classes to be crowded, the overall opinion is positive.

Ms. Taylor assists Zach Abell and Aaron Trafton with their paintings.

Holly Jackson works on her screen print.

Stefan Jackson focuses on his painting.

Leah Beckman and Brittany Truelove discuss their artwork.

FP students whip up a masterpiece during FACS

FACS classes this year were full of fun and learning. These students spent their class time cooking food, learning to care for children and housing design, and so much more.

Laura Klem washes the dishes after she is done.

Seniors Laura Oser, Phil Weyer, Renee Woebkenberg, and Laura Klem smell their sauce to determine if it is ready to eat.

Junior Tessa Mohr walks to the bookcase to grab a textbook before class.

Industrial technology classes create new things

Many students participate in the industrial classes that are offered at FP. Some build masterpieces while others spend their time under the hood of a vehicle. Many others take drafting classes. All teach important life skills.

Senior Clint Schaeffer searches for a certain tool in the cabinet.

Juniors Jonathon Fehribach and James Schulthise glance at the engine.

Clint Schaeffer, Jeremy Hopf, and Philip Reckelhoff look under the hood to fix the engine.

The guys talk around the car during class.

Justin Weyer works on changing the oil in the car.

Jonathon Fehribach and Jason Harlan discuss the problem in depth.

Mr. Jeff Johnson checks out the room.

Agriculture students play in the dirt

From working in the dirt, to working on their farm equipment, ag students are able to learn a lot about farm and agriculture from Mr. Doug Walker. Many think of the class as fun, not necessarily easy, but definitely a break from the rigorous homework activity of the rest of the day.

Health students watch as Chris Atkins does what he usually does.

Health, p.e. classes learn about everyday living

Students in health are graced with the teaching tactics of Mr. Matt Sisley, but during the earlier part of the day, Mr. Sisley is joined with Mrs. Vicki Beach to teach an important part of everyday life--physical education. The classes teach students anything from volleyball to eating right.

Gina Wagner studies her health lessons attentively.

business and law

One aspect of business classes that many people are associated with is the mock trial presented by the business law class. This class gives you an insight into many areas of business and law. Also, along with business law, the business department of FP includes introduction to business, Accounting I, Accounting II, computer applications, advanced computer applications, and business technology lab. The two accounting classes give you a very good insight on how to keep accurate records. The introduction to business class opens you to the world of business and many terms that a person can use in the real world. If you want more computers, they have an advanced course. Mr. Jared Howard and Mrs. Beth Schnellenberger lead the way in the business teaching at FP.

third Blue Chip Conference title in a row

This year's soccer season was one of a kind. The team ended the season with a record of 11-7-1. After losing 15 seniors last year, no one knew what would be in store for the team this year. Although there were not as many seniors this year, five total, they helped lead the team in winning twice as many games as last year. Co-captains this year were Nick Winters and Charles Schneider. Charles said, "We had the best record for my high school career."

Many of the students and players will remember this season as an interesting one at least. The most exciting event took place at the sectional against Heritage Hills. The basic recap is that some inappropriate words were spoken between one of the opposing team's coaches and the soccer players. The soccer team didn't get off scot-free, but they were subjected to many lectures in sportsmanship.

Volleyball brings home 4th sectional title in a row

For the fourth year in a row, the varsity volleyball team won the 2A sectional held at Forest Park. They won by defeating Southridge in the championship. The team was defeated by Brownstown Central in the first round of the 2A regional. Besides winning the sectional, the team won the Jeffersonville Tourney with a record of 3-0. The varsity volleyball team finished with a record of 25-8 and won the Blue Chip Conference. This year was the first year that FP had the opportunity to play Jasper, however they were defeated. Before sectional the team could be seen driving around town or eating at Fazoli's. "Ah hoop!" was a cheer that the players did after every point. Seniors Shari Weyer and Jenny Lubbers will both be playing volleyball in college. Shari will play at Jacksonville State, while Jenny will play at Wabash Valley.

The JV volleyball team won the competitive Forest Park JV tourney over Mater Dei, Castle, and Jasper. The championship was the first time any FP JV team had ever won every game in the tourney. The JV team finished the season with a record of 21-7. They won the Blue Chip Conference with a perfect record of 9-0. Junior Neal Knies, number one singles, and senior Nick Weyer and junior Kyle Greulich, number one doubles, received Blue Chip All-Conference honors. Junior Todd Lamkin earned Honorable Mention in the conference. The team beat Southridge in their first game of the sectional, but lost to Jasper in their next match of the sectional. complete season strong; finish at 13-9

The Forest Park Lady Rangers completed their season with a record of 13-9. Their final defeat came at the hands of their rival the Southridge Raiders. The Raiders defeated FP on a last second shot during the 2A sectional at Forest Park. Throughout the season the Lady Rangers improved significantly. At one point, late in the season, they had a seven-game winning streak. They finished the season ranked 23rd in the state in defense. The team won their games by playing good defense. The Rangers were led by five seniors, Kim Hochgesang, Jill Hopf, Laura Klem, Jenny Lubbers, and Emily Miller.

Many things made this Ranger team unique. One thing that stands out about this team was their ability to get along and have fun. The team did many things together like having a sleepover, visiting Ms. Niehaus's house, and eating out.

Boys' basketball makes historic run to Consec

Since 1993, Forest Park boys' basketball has craved another sectional crown. After ten years, the team brought home a sectional trophy while defeating Southridge, South Spencer, and Crawford County. However, the Rangers didn't want to stop there. The team kept on pushing their way through the state and doing some things that teams have never done in the past. First, a regional victory was achieved for the first time by conquering Brownstown Central and Mater Dei. Next, a semi-state crown was gained by overcoming Eastern Hancock. The Rangers gained a birth in the Class 2A state championship. The team left its impression on the state but came up short against Cass.

Girls' JV basketball keeps playing strong

Every season, JV teams play before the main event, the varsity game. However, this year, the girls decided to draw a little attention to themselves and turn a couple of heads. This season, the girls' JV team compiled a 14-5 record. Along their route to 14 wins, the team had a 13 game win streak intact that broke the previous school record. The current record was 12 wins in a row. Also, while doing this, the team managed to capture the Blue Chip Conference crown with a perfect 8-0 record. Team members include Audrey Kress, Dana Lindauer, Lindsey Wagner, Shelly Brahm, Nicole Bieker, Bridget Lindauer, Stephanie VanWinkle, Jessica Dooley, Cassie Berg, Erin Troesch, Leah Hoffman, Kelsie Williams, Kaci Giesler, and Amanda Gogel.

JV teammates strive toward their goals

Like the girls, the guys also have to play before the varsity. This puts a little pressure on them. However, this year, when people came to the varsity game expecting to see them warming up, the JV team was busy playing. The JV went into an unusual amount of overtime games this season under Coach Matt Sisley. Also, a lot of times, overtime wasn't enough; the team wanted a little more excitement and went into double overtime. Team members include Andy Berg, Brett Schlachter, Brandon Hopf, Todd Lamkin, Aaron Ketzner, Jordan Hopf, Matt Atkins, Chris Atkins, Mike Lamkin, and Tony Kemper. Also, towards the end of the year, the freshman team joined the JV for the last couple of games.

Three Ranger wrestlers take home sectional titles

For the Ranger wrestlers, 2003 was a very exciting year. After a mediocre season, the team competed in an amazing sectional held at Memorial Gym in Huntingburg. At the sectional, which took place February 1, four of the team's members advanced--freshman Eric Evitts, junior Garrett Atkins, and seniors Brent Wendholt and Jeremy Evitts. The regionals were held on February 8, with Jeremy, Brent, and Garrett advancing to yet another level. Jeremy Evitts was the only wrestler to advance to state level, but unfortunately lost in the first round. Coach Chip Elderkin seemed to be excited about the sport. "I really enjoy coaching. That's what inspired me to become a teacher. Wrestling has been a major part of my life since I was four years old. I can't imagine living without it!"

Girls take it to the house with #11

The girls' track team won their eleventh sectional, were undefeated until regional, had four girls advance to the state meet, and shattered many records throughout the season.

Mandy Knust alone broke the two-mile and mile school records. Brittney Knies advanced to state in the 100m, 200m, and 400m dash. She placed seventh in the 400 and eighth in the 200. Laura Oser, Megan Hauser, Amanda Gogel, and Brittney advanced to state in the 400m relay. They managed to place nineteenth and broke the school record.

Boys' track strives for victory

The boys' track team pulled together to compete with and defeat other area teams. They won all dual meets, the Blue Chip Conference, the Dubois Invite, and the Dubois/Pike Invite, and they came in a close second place in sectional. Throughout the season the 300m hurdles record was broken several times by Travis Harpenau. And the 3200m relay team, Nick Winters, Brandon Betz, Chris Atkins, and Matt Atkins, broke the school record.

FP softball ranked as high as third in the state; end season on heartbreak

While their season was somewhat injury filled, the 2003 FP varsity softball team completed their season with a record of 17-5. At one point during the season the Lady Rangers were ranked as high as third in Class 1A. FP's season ended during the sectional at Tecumseh. After defeating Dubois in the first game of sectional, the Rangers lost to eventual sectional champion and host Tecumseh, 3-1. The Rangers were led by three seniors, Laura Klem, Emma Lubbers, and Amanda Verkamp. The team enjoyed time together singing to their tape, slip and sliding, and eating food.

The 2003 JV team finished with a perfect record in JV competition.

The Ranger baseball team had a great season in spite of the upset at sectional. They lost to the South Spencer Rebels in the sectional opener 2-1. They ended the season with a record of 20-4. They won the Blue Chip Conference title with a perfect 9-0. They also ended the season on a nine-game winning streak. Junior Kyle Greulich had a remarkable individual season. He hit four home runs in one game against the Loogootee Lions which tied the state record for most home runs in a game and tied the school record as well. The JV team finished their season with an 18-5 record.

Golf team has iron will

A very young FP golf team finished the season with 10 wins and 36 losses in single matches and tournament play. Coach Bill Dittmer emphasized that they had only one returning letterman. They were tenth out of 14 teams in the sectional and were eighth in the Blue Chip Conference. Sophomore Colin Austin was Most Valuable Player, and freshman Cody White received the Most Improved award.

Girls' tennis serves up another one

The 2002-03 tennis season went reasonably well, considering that more matches were won than were lost by the girls. "I love tennis season," was usually the most common quote by most of the girls who participate, though they finished the season with a loss to Jasper after defeating Dubois in the sectional.

Dance team brings home champion trophy on first try

The 2002-03 school year included an amazing accomplishment for the dance team. The girls entered their very first state-wide tournament, not to come home empty-handed, but to bring home a first place trophy in pom and a second place rating in dance. The team was praised by students and teachers alike, and proved that they put their hearts and souls into each dance.

Cheerleaders inspire the fans at Conseco

Cheerleaders always carry a burden on their shoulders, trying to get basketball fans on their feet and screaming. The girls did an amazing job of doing just that by getting the adult crowds to participate in "The Wave" and other fan favorites all the way to Conseco. The "Ranger Cheer" could be heard at every game of the tournament.

Cheerleaders show their skills by doing a pyramid before the game.

FP adds two new teams: bowling and swimming

Forest Park was fortunate enough to have two new teams during the 2002-2003 winter, the bowling and swimming teams. The bowling team practice at Dubois Lanes in Huntingburg. The swim team found time to practice at Heritage Hills. Junior Leah Schneider along with her dad helped to start the swim team, while senior Dana Merkley and her mom helped to start the bowling team.

This yearbook has been completed mainly by trial and error. There were no returning journalism II members, so we were only able to complete this book with the help and advice of our adviser Mr. Ed Walston. He walked us through the basics and even worked with us to complete the yearbook after school concluded. Without him, this book wouldn't have happened. Thanks to the teachers and staff who allowed us to miss class time in order to take pictures for the yearbook. We would also like to applaud Robert McCarty Photography for taking underclassmen, sports teams, Prom, and Holiday Ball pictures. Also, we would like to thank everyone who offered pictures when we were in need of more to fill our pages. Finally, thanks for the support that everyone showed us by letting us vent when things weren't going smoothly.
