The "J"

the VIEW from HERE

Many students waited anxiously to send the girls' golf team off to State where they wrapped up a great season. This was the first time in many years that they made it to State.

Courtney Knies

by Chris Tucker

Students. Athletes. Club members. Friends. Everyone has his or her own unique perspective of our school that can be portrayed in "The View from Here." As we look to all the memories made—all the high fives in the halls, crazy pep sessions, and wild class projects—we view our time here with great optimism. We viewed everything from art displays to posters advertising extracurricular activities. Whatever it was, we could always find something that pertained to our liking.

Throughout our time at JHS, we came to realize that we were much more than just a group of students. We were a family. Individuals had their own perks and unique characteristics, making them different from the rest. An athlete, a fan, a band member, and a club president all shared different views with the student body that made their four years special to them.

Whether it be little gestures or inside jokes, we were continuing to form bonds that will forever keep us close to our family here at JHS. As we view the past while looking to the future, we see that our parents were right. We will miss high school, including the laughter shared at lunches and the many homerooms spent filling out surveys or nominating classroom representatives. As we go on with our lives, we must come to realize that nothing can replace the view we had from here.

Strumming a tune is Chet Strange (9) on the way to a speech team meet in Evansville. He went to watch duo competitors and to gain experience.

Rooting on the Cats, Vince Pitstick (10), Warren Dunn (12), Clint Renner (12), Dustin Spanbauer (12), and Josh Owen (12) stand in the end zone of the football field. The students could always be found cheering in this section at each home football game.

Drawing back to launch the ball across the field is Catherine Loner (12). The Lady Cats advanced all the way to semi-state.

TYPICAL NIGHTS

here in our TOWN

“My favorite weekend activities are partying hard and dancing on tailgates.”

-Haley Brescher (12)

“My favorite weekend activity is playing my video games.”

-Thomas Burrell (9)

Jonathan Uebelhor (11) and Eric Skillman (11) are enjoying a game of foosball. Spending time with friends is a favorite weekend pasttime.

As soon as the students walked through the doors on Monday mornings, they were already eager to make plans for the upcoming weekend. Most of the students spent their weekends dating, eating out, supporting the team at a game, going to the movies, hanging out at a friend's house, or going to parties.

A very typical Friday night for students was catching a bite to eat at one of the popular restaurants around town such as Los Bravos, Taco Bell, Garfield's, Applebee's, or the newest restaurant in Jasper, Sozo Cafe. These restaurants were great places to visit with friends as well as with dates.

When Saturday night rolled around, students were excited to find a way to spend their night. At the close of the weekend, students spent their Sundays doing homework, going to church, or just hanging out with friends.

Sophomores Maddie Belk and Amber Schulz support the Wildcats at a football game. Attending football games was a highlight for most students.

Abby Merkel (12) spends an evening dying Andy Kohls's (12) hair. When there was nothing to do, students found ways to entertain themselves.

“I can't wait to drive so Samantha Hawkins and Natasha Fromme won't have to drive me anymore.”

-Payal Sharma (11)

“I love cars! They can look really good and get me where I need to be.”

-Nick Grothouse (12)

Who says that only students have awesome vehicles? Mrs. Luebbehusen drives a yellow Dodge Ram 1500 with a Hemi. Pretty cool truck for a teacher!

by Natasha Fromme

No matter when, no matter where, students always needed their transportation. Being able to have the freedom to drive was not only exciting but convenient as well. Some students drove unique cars, such as Mike Huther's (12) MR2 Spider. Most students' cars expressed a little bit about them.

Most popular vehicles were definitely trucks and SUV's. With deceiving colors, some people even mixed up their vehicles. Senior Alexis Catt said, "Courtney Knies and I tend to get confused with our Explorers."

A very popular vehicle was the Ford Escape. Varied colors filled our lots, such as Heather Flannagan's (11) silver one, Ali Mathias' (11) black one, and even Lauren and Brooklyn Becher's (11) yellow one.

Whether the students' cars were brand new or fully restored, they took pride in their vehicles.

The award for most unique car would definitely go to Mike Huther (12) and his Spider. Mike's small car is hard to spot in the parking lot, but it is clearly a sight to see.

Diversity of JHS vehicles is not only viewed from the ground. From the roof you can clearly see the differences in students' vehicles.

TALENTS

here in our STUDENT BODY

by Amanda Bohnenkemper

“Singing to me is very inspiring. It keeps me looking forward towards the future.”

-Alax Traylor (10)

“My favorite talent would have to be music in general.”

-Kevin Buffington (9)

Winning the championship along with three first place trophies keeps Adam Nigg (11) racing on. He has been involved in racing for two years.

Look at all the people around you right now. Who has a chance of being the next Larry Bird, Tony Stewart, or John Mellencamp? Are you possibly sitting next to a future Guinness Book World Record Holder or a U.S. Olympic Gold Medalist?

There was a point in time when each of these people were Indiana high school students just like us. When did they discover the talents within them? The people around you are more than just hicks, preps, book worms, band geeks, stoners, or jocks. Everyone has a talent, even if they don't think they do. Talents are what set us apart from one another.

Do you like to sing or dance? Maybe you play a sport or can ace every test you take. We all have a hidden talent somewhere under our skin, no matter how big or how small we think it may be. However, we can bring each other together by sharing them. Have you found your talent yet?

Logan Stenftenagel (10) isn't your average double-jointed classmate. Gymnastics has finally paid off.

TRENDS

-Ryan Harder (12)

“I’m a trend setter, not a trend follower. No one tells me how to dress. I have my own style.”

-Brittany Beyke (10)

“My favorite trend this year is gauchos.”

While talking with a fellow classmate, Jenna Bromm (10) reveals her trendy rings. “One is never enough.”

What’s in, what’s out, and what are you wearing? Students wore all kinds of styles from gaucho pants to having Ipods in their pockets. Girls went crazy by sequencing anything and everything. Girls also accessorized with rings, earrings, and long necklaces.

Guys were just as fashionable wearing sandals, old concert t-shirts, Carhartt jackets, and popped collars. The guys stated, “I can work hard, but when I need to, I can be just as casual.” Guys didn’t have a set style on what they wore. More or less they just picked out the first clean t-shirt in their closet and slapped it on.

Everybody expressed different VIEWS on what they thought was “in.” People changed their image all the time. Just remember to stay true to yourself and express it by wearing what you want, not what other people think you have to wear. These fashion statements won’t be HERE in fifty years.

Brandi Hayes

Hannah Apple (12) and Kara Kieffner (10) compliment each other on their fashion. Top trends worn were sweater vests with fur boots.

Ipods are becoming more and more popular. They have been popping up everywhere lately.

“Young Life has given me the opportunity to bring Christ into my life.”

-Courtney Patron (11)

Freshmen Audrey Hopkins, Hilary Waltz, and Greta Hurlbut attend “Game Night.” Bosco put on different themes each week.

One aspect of life that plays an important factor in a student's life is religion. Many churches in the community devoted Wednesday nights to youth groups. Students felt this helped them be with their peers and also enriched their knowledge of their faith.

Megan Weinzapfel (11) commented that she enjoyed Young Life because she “gets to be with her close friends and interact with her peers.”

Young Life met on Monday evenings at the VFW. On an average, around sixty students participated.

Saint John Bosco met every Wednesday night for Book Buster. Catholic students practiced their faith by taking turns reading the Bible to their peers. Ross Terwiske (10) said he attended Bosco clubs “to have fun while learning the aspects of his faith.”

Although there are many different denominations at our school, students felt their faith was influential.

Colors of black and gold packed the bleachers and the overflowing aisles. Chants and cheers rippled back and forth between opposing student bodies. Eager teenagers loitered along rusty fences to interrogate vulnerable players during warm-up drills. The student body never failed to provide loyalty and support for peer athletes.

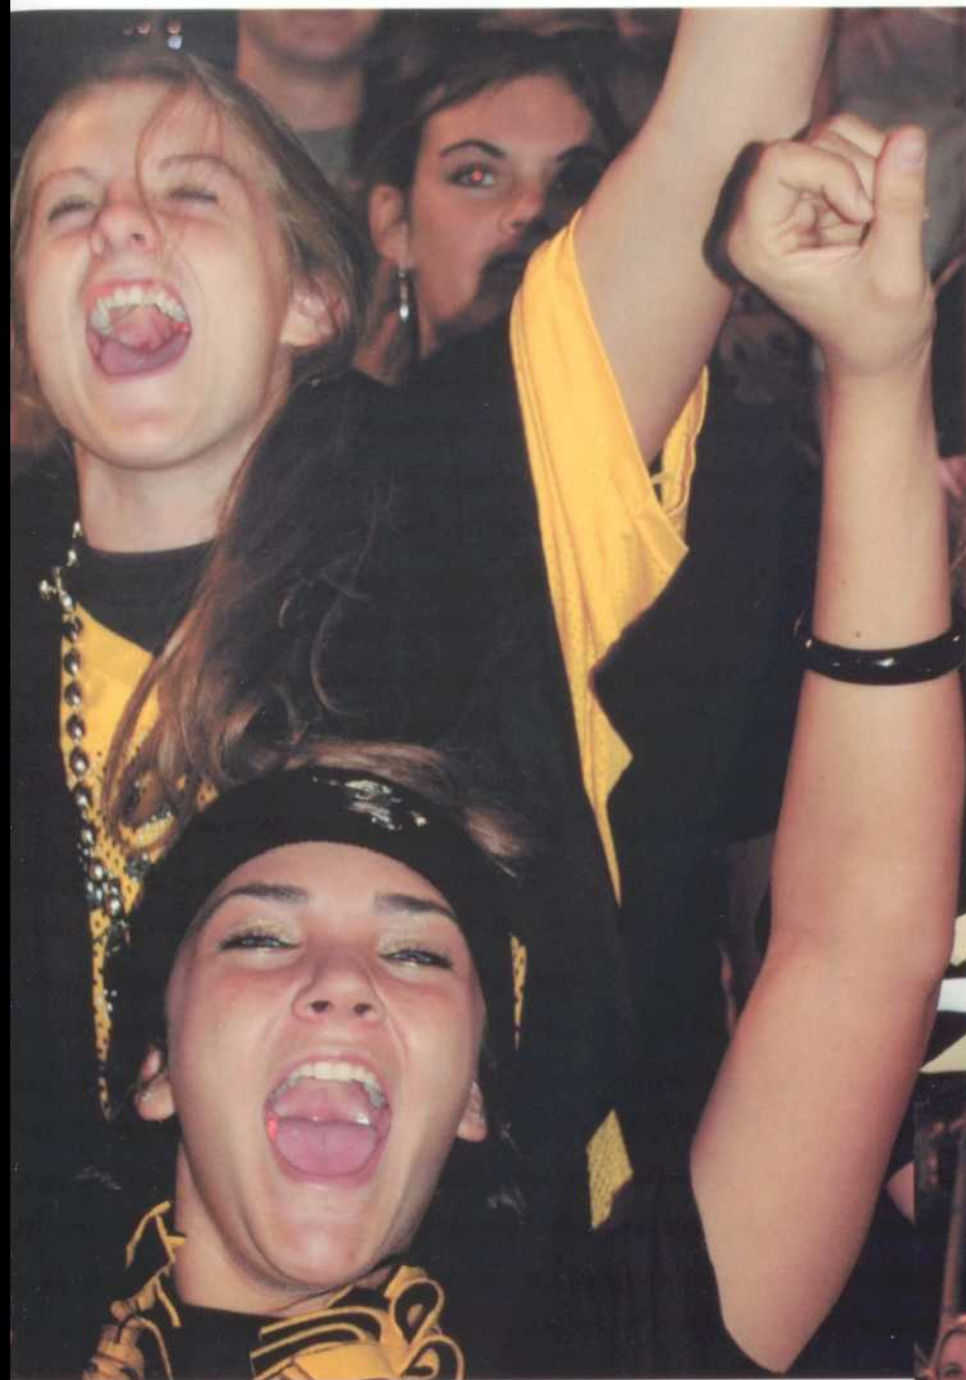

Success, once again, was associated with Jasper athletics. Numerous teams advanced deep into tournament play.

Historical runs in athletics gave students something to cheer for. Competitors were honored with student body send-offs, hoping to return home with State titles for our school. Whenever an opportunity for spirit arose, we were always there, backing our Cats.

Designing a class float for the annual pep parade started off our year of spirit. Student Council then sponsored many school pep rallies that included athletic relays and humorous contests.

Mallory and Emily Lents (10) love spending their time together. The treadmill has always been one of their favorite machines.

Going to school with your siblings means you never know where they’re going to pop up. Being embarrassed by an older brother or being teased by an older sister are just some of the fears involved when it comes to your family. In other words, there is no way to avoid your siblings when you’re inside the same building.

Sooner or later someone finds out about your little brother or sister, whether a teacher blabs it out, or he just mysteriously appears around your group of friends. There’s no telling how semi-classified information fell into the wrong hands.

In the long run, most people actually enjoyed having their siblings go to school with them. Knowing you have someone with you all the time brought comfort to many. Whether you enjoyed playing in sports, being active in the same clubs, or participating in the same languages, siblings were there for each other every day whether they realized it or not.

Two nights a year, students nominated to homecoming court strut their stuff on the football field or on the basketball court in front of hundreds of people from the community. They tried their hardest to look their best for everyone who attended these games.

In October, high school sweethearts Haley Brescher and Jason Schmitt were crowned queen and king to reign over the game along with other homecoming court members. As was tradition, each class designed a backdrop to decorate the north end of the field. The sophomores took top honors with their “Candy Shop” theme while juniors won second for their Fifties decorations.

SPECIAL EVENTS

“I loved the Welcome Freshmen dance because everyone is constantly dancing!”

-Beth Hochgesang (10)

“The Freshmen dance was awesome; the seniors knocked everyone out of the way!”

-Chad Tyler (12)

Celtic vocalist Cathie Ryan and her band play music in order to show us a bit of Irish heritage. Many students enjoyed this upbeat performance.

Many events brought students together for a great deal of fun. Some of these were dances such as the Welcome Freshmen dance and the Senior dance. Others were the Shakespearean festival, Jasper Arts performances, and musical demonstrations.

Students were able to view many different events of variety and culture. One of the favored events was the Shakespearean festival. During each period the seniors held a variety of skits that had a twist involving William Shakespeare's works.

The diversity of the convocations was amazing! Many of them opened the eyes and minds of students. For example, after seeing Justin Lookadoo, many students were appalled and many were very excited. Mr. Lookadoo exhuberated strong views about which students had varied opinions.

These special events were a great way for students to interact together.

The night before Prom, Courtney Seger (11) helps with decorations. She pulled the rope tight so the temporary walls could be hung for the magical night.

In the matter of a few hours, everything in the commons area, hallway, cafeteria, and gym was transformed. Familiar places now resembled a black and white step back into time.

The months prior to the big event were filled with the junior class raising money through poinsettia sales and working at basketball concession stands. Also, in the morning before the eight o'clock bell, committees met to plan the decorations. A warehouse was used to finally build, assemble, and paint the props until the night before Prom when it all came together.

Saturday night arrived and all joined together to dance the night away to songs like "I'll Be" by Edwin McCain which served as the theme song. Everything culminated to one point when the king and queen and prince and princess were announced.

After freshmen and sophomores cleaned up the areas on Sunday morning, the school was back to normal, leaving behind only the memories.

Just moments after the last song played on the dance floor in the cafeteria, students and friends began to enjoy the entertainment provided by the Parent Teacher Organization while also enjoying the free refreshments.

Many prizes were also given out in the early morning. Kyle Knust (12) won a laptop. Tonia Messmer (11) enjoyed receiving $1000. The lucky recipient of an XBOX 360 was Luke Schmidt (12). The total cost of all prizes was over fifteen thousand dollars.

By Guest Writer, Haleigh Johnson

The crowd rises. Every face holds a familiar smile, one of strength and triumph. The Class of 2006 switches their tassels and heads for the door, this time as a graduate. This year's graduating class has been unique to Jasper High School. We intimidated with numbers, conquered in the classroom, and dominated in success.

When our class first walked through the doors at JHS, people had one idea in mind: intimidating. Our class was one of the largest the high school had ever taken on. That in itself was a challenge, but then there were the stories. Every staff member had heard the horror stories of rebels and delinquents. As if size weren't enough, we wowed the school with dreadfulness.

Despite the stories, our class has produced almost three hundred graduates and seven valedictorians. Some will become doctors; others depart for the army, and still others will become wives or mothers. No matter what the task, the Class of 2006 has changed those horror stories to ones of triumph.

We didn't win the State championship two years in a row. We haven't cured world hunger or given a million dollars in cancer causes. However, we did make a difference. Within the community, we aided with planting trees and conversing with elderly. Within the school, we gave hope by running those wild pep sessions all have come to love. Within our lives, we have grown in maturity and reached a standard set far too high for those horrid freshmen four years ago.

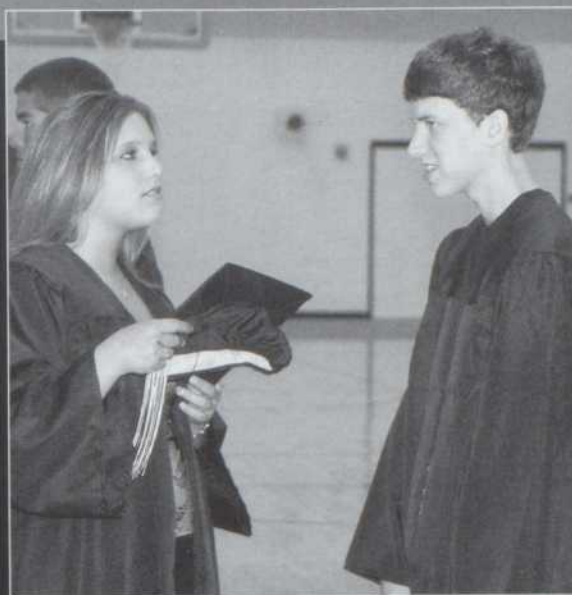

Our class won't go down in history for the best athletically, educationally, or even socially. We don't need to. No matter what people think of our graduating class, we will look back and see those times we cried, laughed, and even grew together. Those are the times that will leave a legacy, not in the eyes of others, but in our hearts.

With the stress of exams finally over, the seniors let loose to enjoy the final few days of high school. The class parties, the senior dance, the senior breakfast, and the senior movie were a few events that filled the place of academic classes. Seniors gathered together one last time to make memorable high school moments. Senior week allowed seniors to celebrate years of studying and years of friendship made within Jasper High School.

$30 spent on cap and gown • 4 years of memories

We will soon come to realize, nothing will ever replace the memories made behind these doors, and the view we had from here.

the CLASS of 2007

by Chris Tucker

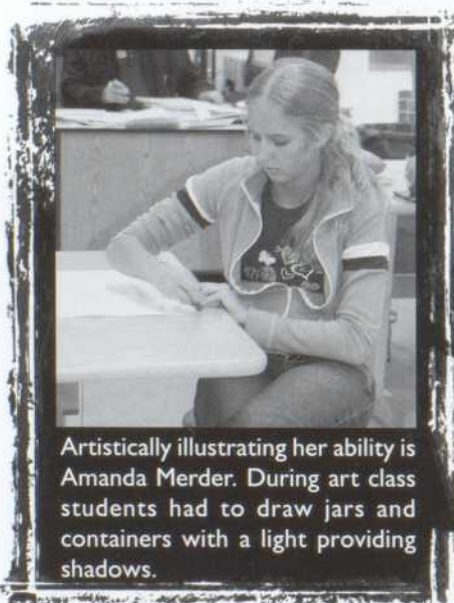

It is hard to believe that in one year we will all be seniors. In the past three years, we have been through many troubling times but have experienced many good times. Each and every one of us has become different from who we were before.

Accomplishing Prom was a big feat this year, and after many long hours of trying to decide on a theme that would be unforgettable, we finally decided. The cafeteria was decorated in a 20's style black and white theme, resembling nothing like the previous years. Through Poinsettia sales and working concession stands, we made that magical night come true for many people.

With the leadership and responsibility that each of us holds, the junior class prides itself on being leaders for the underclassmen. With a year to go, we hope to make many more memories and hope to be one of the most memorable classes that has ever come through JHS.

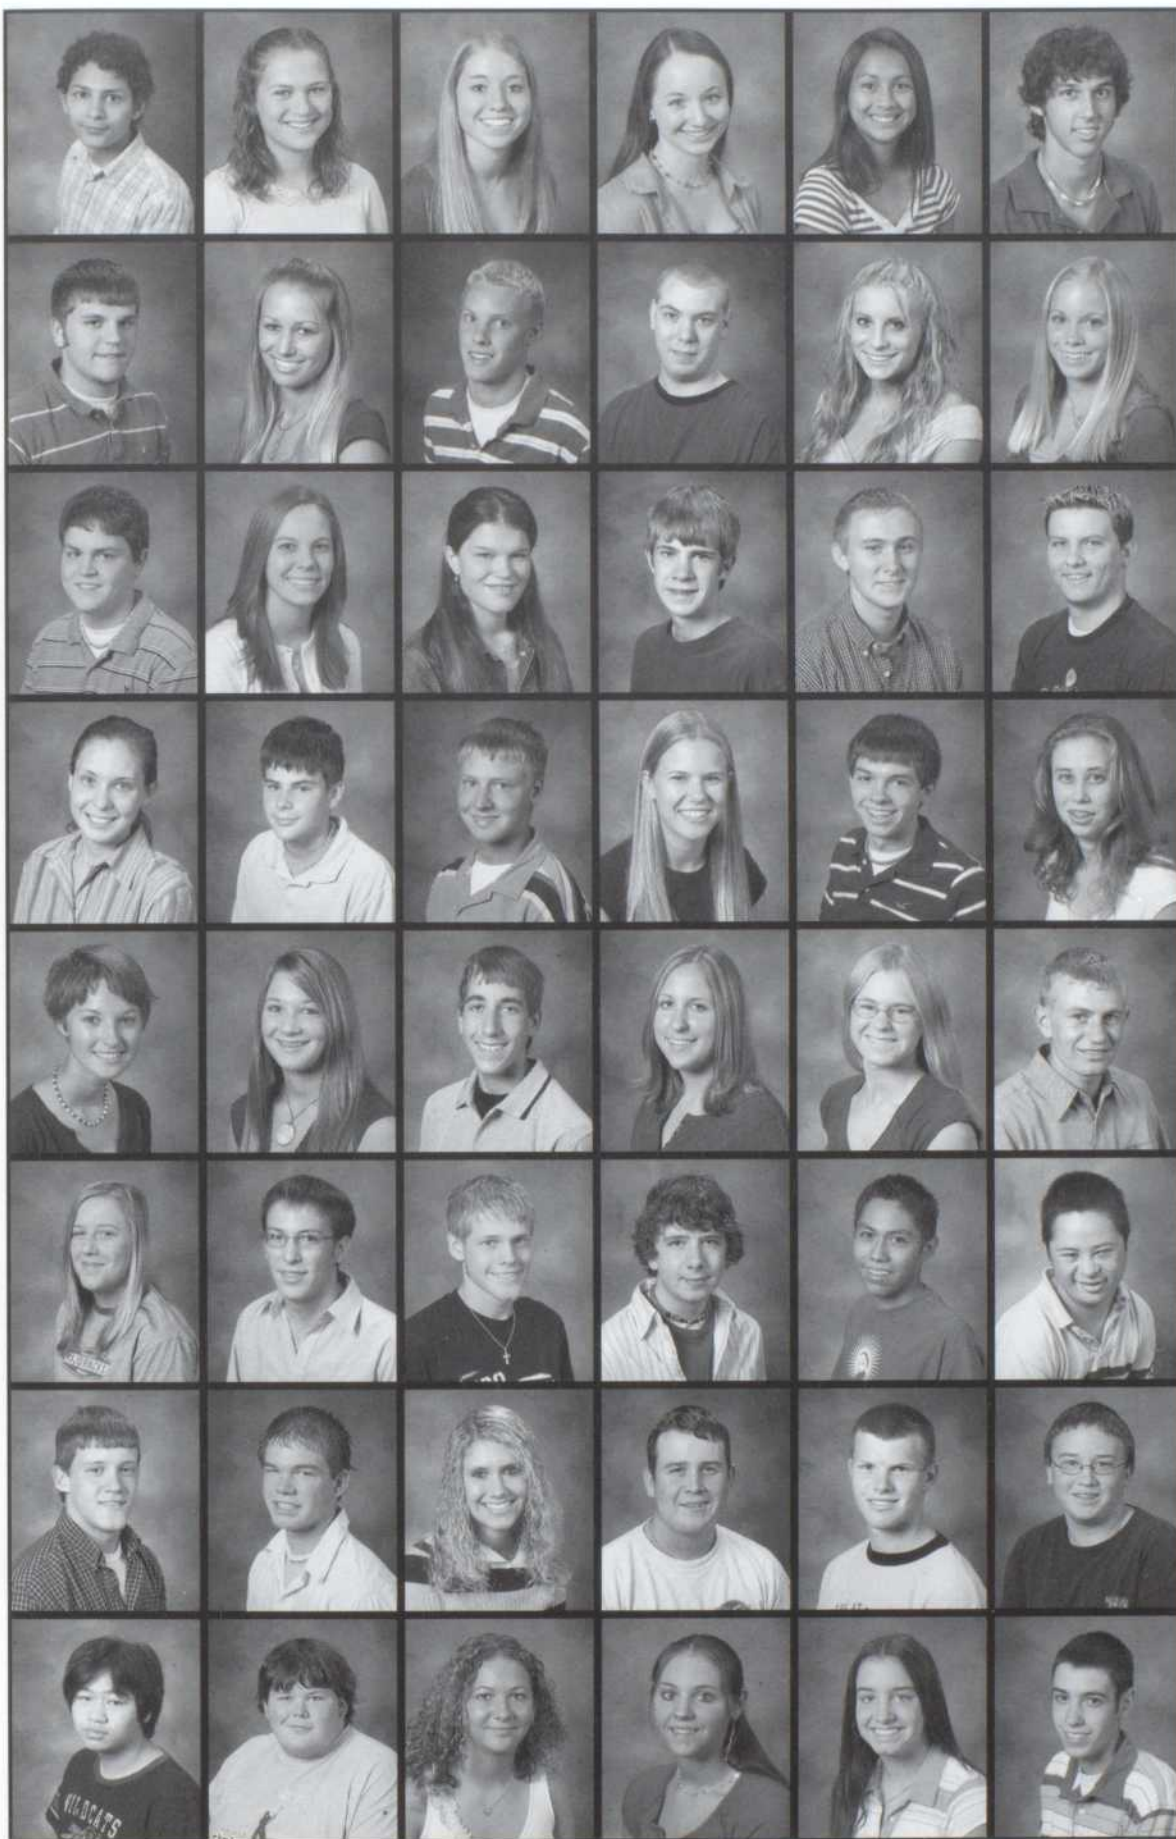

Having a good time at Ichthus, a Christian band concert, are Bob Lowrey, Chris Lynn, and Josh Creutz.

Artistically illustrating her ability is Amanda Merder. During art class students had to draw jars and containers with a light providing shadows.

the CLASS of 2008

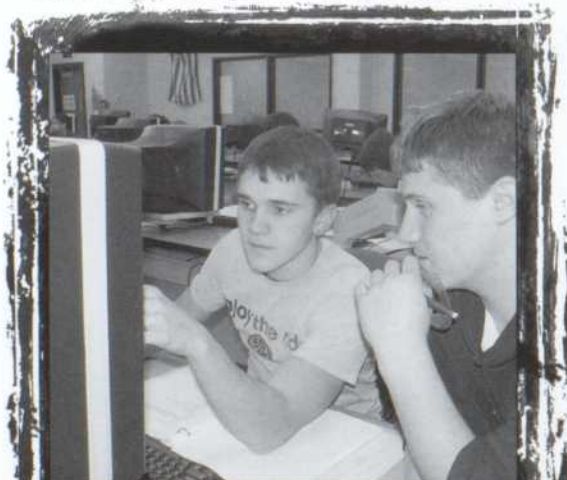

by Paige Schroeder & Kristin Berry

Looking back at the endless memories all of us had together only led us to the impression of what will come in the next few years. With half the journey accomplished, our full potential has yet to be explored. The majority of us pushed our limits but still managed to get the job done.

As our sophomore year started before us, we were ready for the challenges we would face and the activities that would come. We were thrown into the ISTEP testing seats, only wondering if we would pass. Not only did we surpass testing, but we moved on to the activities provided. Roman Day brought much excitement, not only individually, but as a pack.

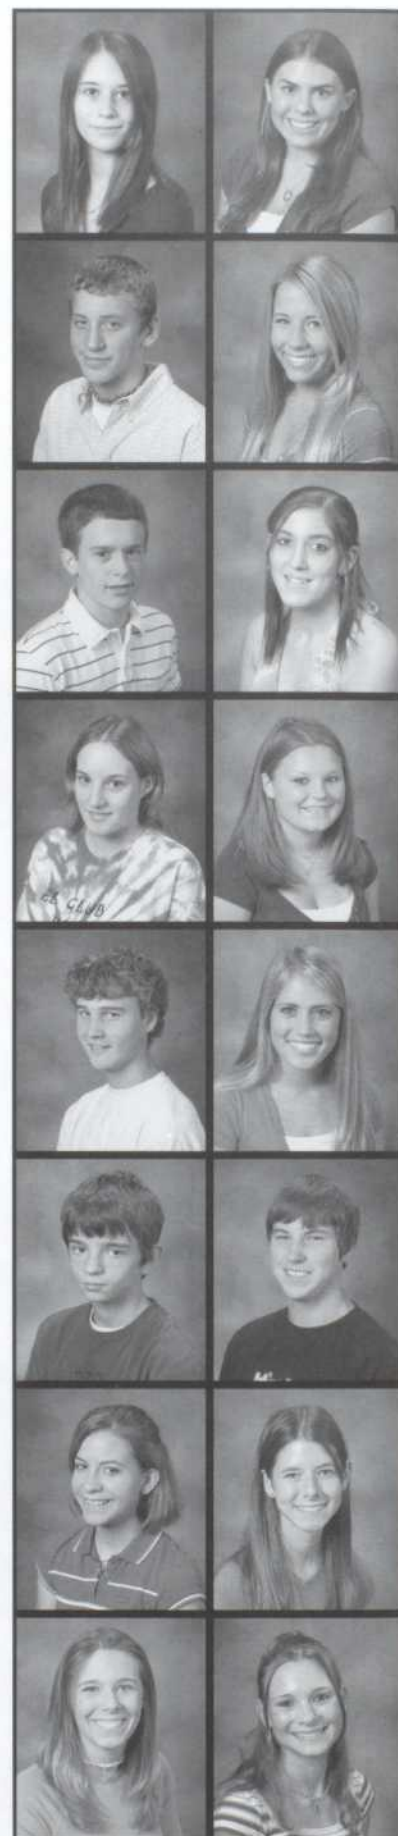

Matthew Getzin and Nick Brassard are giving a presentation for their Journey Through Time class. Each acted out a part of being a doctor.

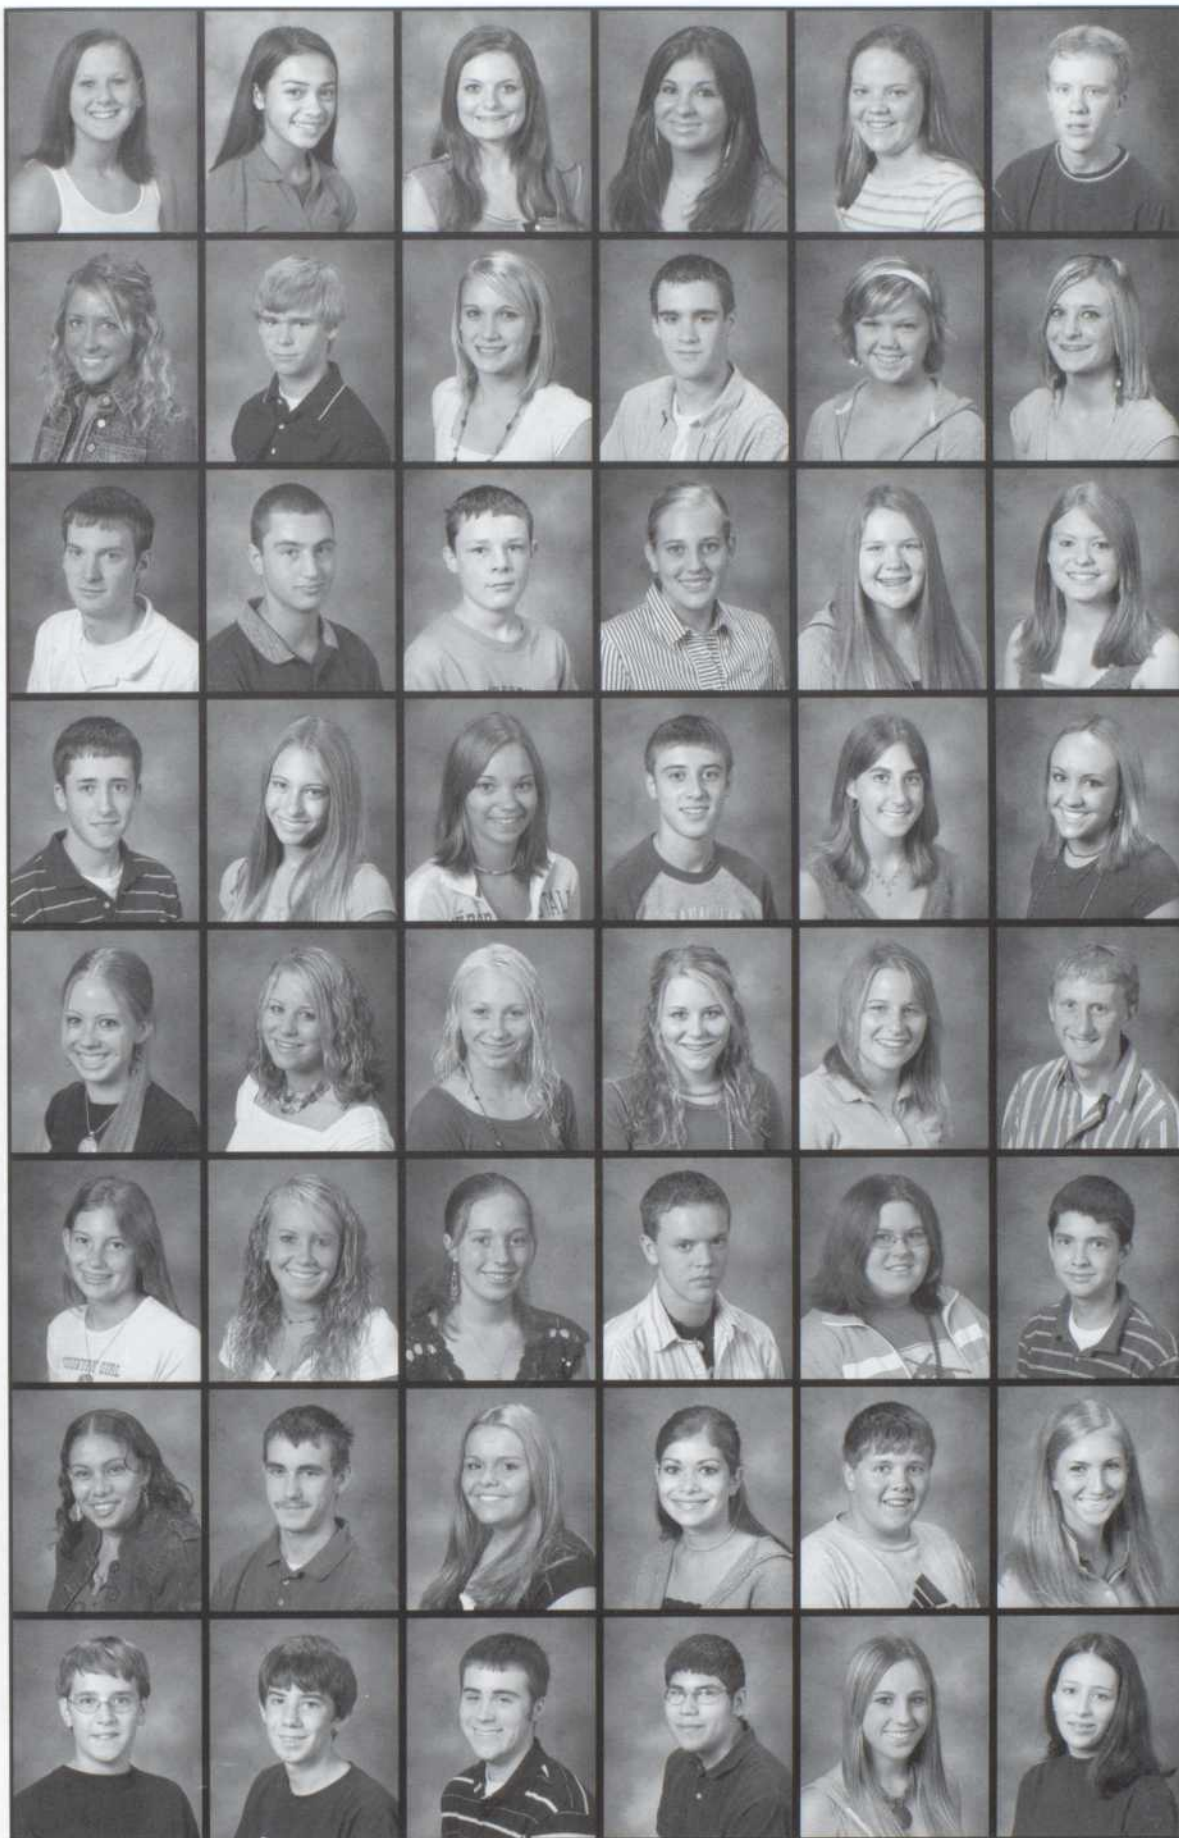

Jared Tempel is showing his computer engineering designs to Daniel Fuhrman. The complex designs helped Jared receive a good grade in the class.

The Class of 2008 pushed right along to Mole Day, where we presented our special projects that we had made.

The one event most will remember is the freedom that we encountered when getting our licenses. This meant we could go our separate ways but always come back together as a whole. We are not only viewed as the Class of '08, but also as the class that upheld many expectations. These met expectations on the field, in the classroom, or even on the stage is what makes our class viewed as one.

the CLASS of 2009

by Jody Brant & Amanda Bohnenkemper

Hen Keller once said, "Life is either a daring adventure or nothing at all," and as a freshman, life is totally an adventure. Leaving the top of the mountain as eighth graders and moving into the less comfortable bottom level of the totem pole is a big change for most. As for others, the thrill of a new experience only brings joy to their first day as a "frosh."

Freshmen, although there are over 250, are like a bunch of new kids that just moved. Not everyone hangs out with everyone, but as a class they are all really close. "There are so many various groups that I hang out with. They are all so different, and it's fun to know them all," says Brandi Hollen.

Katie Hopf, Marissa Main, Kara Brooner, Nathan Rihm, Jenna Brosmer, and Thomas Burrell build a pyramid during study hall.

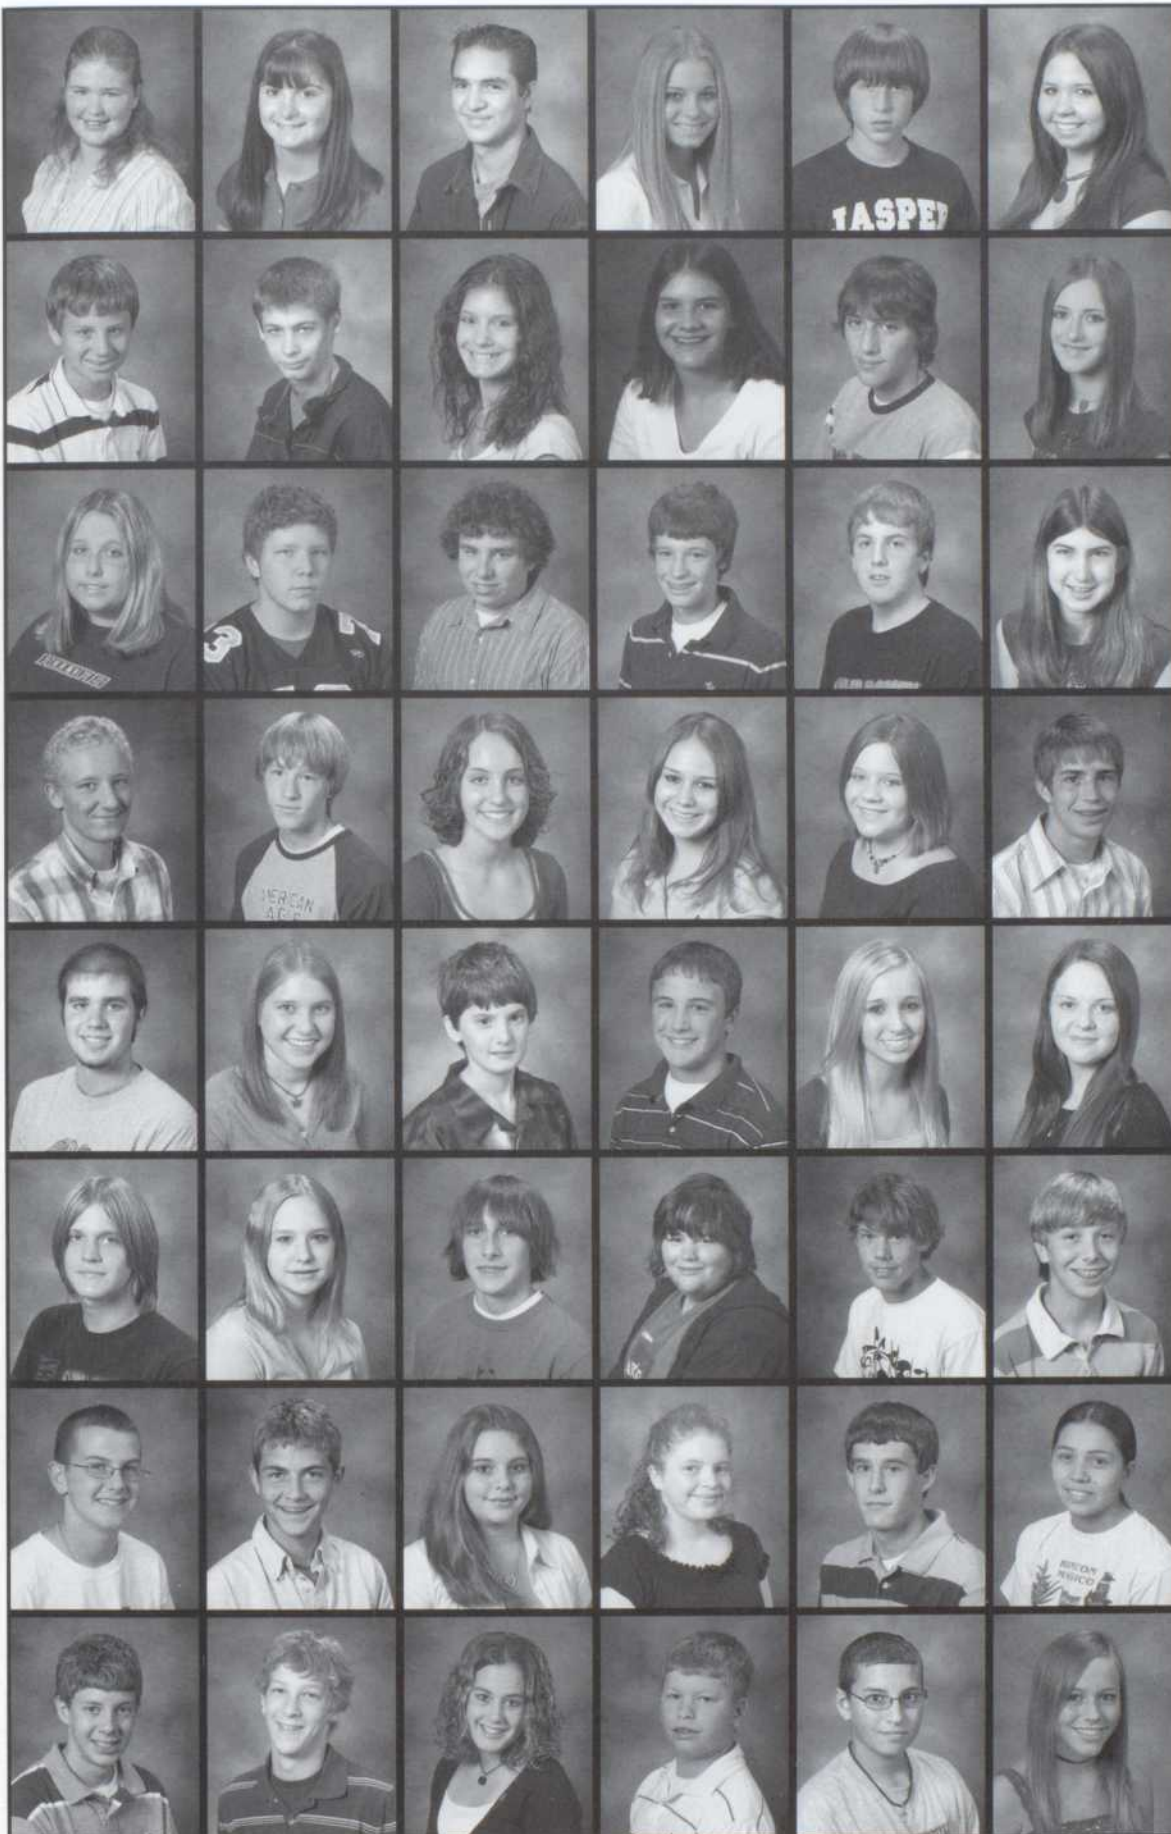

This group of freshmen just couldn't wait for their last day of eighth grade to be over. All of them were looking forward to their first day as freshmen.

"Never let the fear of striking out get in your way," said George Herman "Babe" Ruth. Having fear as a freshman is one of the worst feelings anyone could have. Meeting new people, making your own decisions, and having to "survive" on your own can be a very scary thought for some. The biggest mistake any freshman can make is giving up, so follow some wise advice:

- "Never let anyone or anything stop you from doing what you love."
- "You are your biggest critic, and no one should tell you differently."
- "Do what you love, and love what you do."

What is the best advice you can offer to students?

Mr. Elmer Brames

Mr. Elmer Brames taught for 36 years at JHS after receiving his Bachelor's and Master's Degrees from Indiana State. Over the years his teaching role changed from teaching auto mechanics, small engines, and wood classes to more computerized classes like graphic arts and computer-aided design. In the last five years he was busy implementing a sequence of five Project Lead the Way courses in the field of engineering. He said watching students exceed their own expectations was the best part about teaching, and his favorite memory was the Student Council camp outs. After retiring, he hopes to be elected as the Bainbridge Township Assessor and play some golf. With parting words of advice he said, "Whether you win or lose, succeed or fail, remember that you are still from Jasper and that means something. Be proud, not arrogant, but proud of who you are and where you are from."

Dr. Larry Riggs retired after 36 years in the education field. After obtaining both his Bachelor's and Master's Degrees from Murray

State, he went on to Evansville for his Administrative Endorsement and to Indiana State for his Education Specialist Degree and Ph.D. Before spending 16 years at Jasper, he served as an educator and an administrator for 19 years at Boonville. Dr. Riggs' influences were teachers and coaches who always seemed to take the extra time to help him in whatever he was trying to do in school. He and his wife have moved to Indianapolis, and he left these words. "I have enjoyed my years in education. I'm amazed at how quickly it has passed. I have enjoyed being a part of the Jasper community. This is a special place because the people make it so."

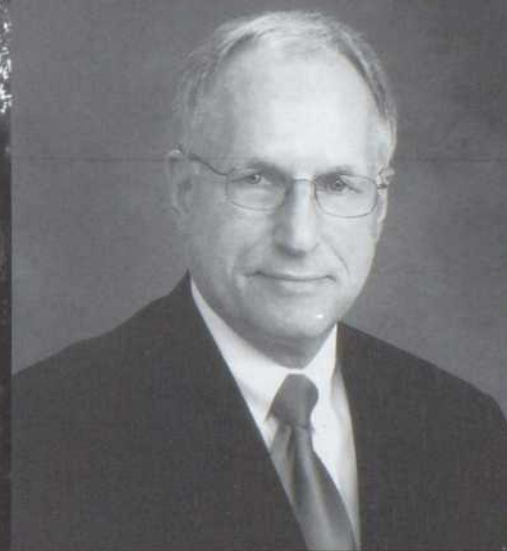

Mr. Jerry Uebelhor attended Jasper High School and received his Bachelor's and Master's degrees from Indiana State. He started his career at Ferdinand High School and finished his career at Jasper High School after 38 years. He taught in the technology department and received State

Mr. Jerry Uebelhor

Technology Teacher of the Year and International Technology Teacher Awards. His favorite part of teaching was seeing past students being successful at their jobs and saying they benefited from his classes. He became a teacher because of his elementary teacher, Mrs. Francis (Mary) Siebert, his industrial arts teacher, Mr. Wes Settle, and some of his family members who were teachers. After retiring, he plans to spend quality time with his family, devote time to his sharpening business, fish, golf, and travel. Mr. Uebelhor's parting words for the student body were, "Education does not stop after high school; it is a life-long process. If you didn't do so well in high school, don't give up. There is a great need for technical workers in this world. Everyone does not need to attend a four-year college. A two-year technical degree can be worth more to you."

For Athletic Director Denny Lewis, Jasper High School is the best of the best. He strongly views our faculty, student body, administration, and facilities to be second to none, and why shouldn't he? Throughout this past year, Jasper was very successful in athletic play, academic challenges, daily classroom activities, and extra-curricular doings. Like every year many different tasks were handled by Vice-Principal Bob Math is something involuntary that students did every day, just like blinking and breathing. They never realized when they did some simple applications, like getting the correct change from the food cabinet or figuring out the fastest way to get from class to class.

One practical use of math was shown in Mr. Swartzentruber's Algebra 2 classes. Students performed an experiment where they made a parabolic-shaped figure, tested it by using a

With a wide variety of classes, students had the chance to experience hands-on activities and learn how the world worked around us. Bringing an end to frog dissections, ice cream labs, making silly putty, or even learning all 206 bones in the body, we came to further understand the many challenges ahead of us. "Science is all around you, and you can never escape it," said Emma Tucker (10). During Mrs. Schmett's Biology I class, freshman Allison Sturgill works on her lab of DNA and TRNA protein building. Emily Schilling (9), Kelly Jacob (10), Jordan Morton (9), and Allison Sturgill (9) are excited after their performance in Solo and Ensemble. These four girls received a gold rating.

Chet Strange (9) rehearses his lines as Director Howard in full suit to assist in getting the full effect. The choir put on the play “Applause” for three nights.

Kyle Rupert (11) takes directions from choir director S.J. Burns. Kyle had a difficult role as the homosexual friend, Dwane, in “Applause.”

Singing along to the radio as you drive down the street seems like nothing, but to a choir student it is just another opportunity for each one of them to practice. Practicing for solo and ensemble, the fall concert, Christmas concert, or Spring concert were just a few reasons.

Being in choir opened many doors for students like being more comfortable with with their voice. Many choir members defeated what has stopped them from being themselves in the past. When performing in the Country Fest, Broadway, or the Anything Goes concert, students couldn't let anything stop them.

Many students also commented that without Mrs. S. J. Burns, everything would just fall to pieces, especially graduation. Performing at the Jasper vs. Heritage Hills basketball game are Stephanie Alles (10) and Kylie White (11). Both girls practiced non-stop with the show choir to make it perfect. “I love choir with Burns,” said Jade Ruckriegel (10).

School ensured a successful future. Not only did it challenge us mentally, it strengthened us physically. There were many different classes to take that involved physical activities. Marissa Main (9) commented, "Health related everything that was going on in my life to what I learned in class." P.E. gave students the chance to interact in physical games. Every other day was dedicated to a sport such as volleyball, flag football, tennis, whiffle ball, and basketball. Some chose to walk around the track or run. When going to the weight room, girls were on cardio first and switched with the boys after fifteen minutes. Lifeguarding prepared students to save lives and also to correctly administer CPR. The seriousness of being tested on different ways to rescue drowning victims and the goal of becoming certified were strong motivating factors for the students.

Jay Braunecker (9) steadily raises a bar with fifty pounds of weight. His partner waited for his turn and also was there to spot him.

Technology and Agriculture classes offered many opportunities for students to experience real world trades and to gain some ideas of what these fields are like. Ag classes taught students how to grow their own plants and how to properly care for them. Construction Systems was a popular class that featured 12 modules that ranged from welding to painting and from working with sheet metal to wiring a fully functioning electrical circuit. This allowed students to choose tasks that they would like to perform during the one semester class. In technology classes such as Project Lead The Way, students studied how to design and construct different objects like bridges that have to support vehicles. This also helped students take a 3-D approach to solving real-world problems. Transportation students learned how many topics relate to the automotive field.

Adam Buschkoetter (9) and Nick Vogler (9) construct a wall for the carpenter module. Having a partner helped the students appreciate teamwork.

the reality

by Amanda Bohnenkemper

There is an ancient Chinese proverb that states: "If you feed a man a fish, you feed him for a day; if you teach a man to fish, you feed him for a lifetime." Students who enrolled in family and consumer science classes learned skills that will be helpful for the rest of their lives.

In the parenting class, students had the opportunity to take a baby home and experience how often the baby cries, even in the middle of the night. "The FACS department is an advantage to us. We have a great department that will help us in the real world. The students will apply what they have learned from the experiences in class," stated Samantha Lindeman (11).

FACS classes helped students prepare for the reality of life.

The skills needed were beyond those written in any textbook.

the opportunities

by Maddie Belk

Many teachers and student volunteers viewed working with special needs students as rewarding. One such rewarding activity was when the students participated in the Special Olympics, encouraging them to play different sports.

The teachers tried to get the students more involved in general education classes, allowing them to have more interaction with the student body. It was very important to have this class because it allowed students with disabilities the opportunity to be successful and become prepared for life. Many of these students applied what they learned because they were taught life skills. They were able to practice these skills at home with their families. It took both teachers and students to help the class to succeed, helping students prepare for their future.

the experiences

by Natasha Fromme

Vocational classes are always a great opportunity for students. They not only give you the chance to travel to other schools to view their way of learning, but they also offer hands-on experiences for a career that you may possibly pursue. At each school students learned from a teacher who has experience in his field. This can give the students a jump-start on their careers.

There are many different off-campus opportunities including auto mechanics, building trades, transmissions, welding, cosmetology, computer repairs, and child development. On campus, we offer law enforcement and health occupations. Law enforcement student Jared Wagner (12) said, “I like law enforcement because it lets us see what the law is like from the perspective of a police officer.”

Chad Hochgesang (12) works diligently on his project in auto mechanics class. The students received experience on all different automobiles.

Make an impact

Waking up early in the morning seemed to be a common theme for Student Council. Every Tuesday morning at 7:35, the council discussed and planned activities throughout the year. The involvement from the council helped to raise money for numerous causes.

The council also decided to start a new tradition: "Welcome to JHS Day." Members had to be at school by 5:45 am to bake chocolate chip cookies for students and faculty and greet them at the door.

Another event was Staff Appreciation Week when breakfast was made for all staff members. Many Saturday morning activities like Service Day, where members did projects like raking leaves and cleaning yards for the elderly, also demanded early starts.

Student Council attended many conventions such as the Rep Assembly and State Convention.

Despite what the clock may have read, the council received the Honor Council status once again to show how successful and active they were to the student body of JHS.

Lend a hand

“If you’re not part of the future, get out of the way” were the words of John Mellencamp printed on the back of Key Club members’ t-shirts. The lyrics to a song were a great way to capture the essence of both Peer Mentors and Key Club.

The Peer Mentors attended a planning seminar over the summer to learn how to help incoming freshmen live up to their full potential. Before school began, Peer Mentors led a Wildcat Kick-Off event to help new students learn about the school. Also, several times throughout the year, Peer Mentors met with the freshmen to help teach skills and do fun activities.

Key Club’s mission was to serve children and the community. This was accomplished with monthly activities including highway clean-up, raising money for Crisis Connection and Leukemia and Lymphoma Society, and sponsoring a Staff Appreciation Week.

The actions completed by these club members definitely made them part of the future on which they had a huge impact.

“Getting pizza at every project was a highlight of Key Club for me.”

The French call it a société, the German call it a klub, the Japanese call it a bijutsubu, and the Spanish call it a club. What is it? It's a club. Each of the foreign language clubs did their own activities throughout the year for fun and for fundraising. The French and German clubs challenged one another at Ultimate Frisbee. French Club also sponsored a "Rock for Haiti" benefit concert in early May. The proceeds went to improve the lives of people in Dupity, Haiti. German Club hosted exchange students from different parts of Germany. Japanese Club hosted Japanese exchange students for one week of their summer break. They also cooked many rice dishes and practiced writing calligraphy. Spanish Club "adopted" a Hispanic family for Christmas and donated presents. They also attended the Fiesta Latina in Chicago and held a dance lesson in April. Even though these clubs participate in a wide range of activities, they were all here for one reason: to help bring a small part of another country's culture to our high school lives.

“French Club is more than Mardi Gras-it's ultimate frisbee, movie nights, and helping the people of Haiti.”

Art Club and Art Horizons GT may sound like they would be the same thing, but in truth, they are unique in their own way.

In order to be accepted into Horizons GT, students first filled out a nomination form or were nominated by a faculty member.

The next step was to submit a portfolio of their personal works to be judged. Throughout the year the GT students had the opportunity to listen to knowledgeable individuals. Speakers Myra Schuetter and Ralph Steele taught them how to be successful in the real world and how to make a living by getting their art noticed.

The Art Club members built and painted different furniture pieces for the auction they hold annually at the Taster's Party. They hosted a Children's Art Day for all area children. Each child was given the opportunity to learn more about art and what interests him. After the event, Rachelle Hoffman (11) reflected by saying, "I'm glad that I got to work with all of the little children."

Show the skills

After having a memorable season with the band, the Color Guard moved on and began another five months of hard preparation for the Winter Guard season. Members spent hours perfecting their show, "Hero With In," to make it suitable to present. Guard members wore all sorts of accessories from masks and gauntlets to leotards. Working every Tuesday and Thursday from six to nine, and all day practices on Saturday, the girls put all of their time and devotion into their show. Phil Fleming had once told them, "If you want to go after the gold, take it all. Fight for it and never give up, even when you feel like everything is failing."

The Jasper Winter Guard took everything to heart. By doing this they showed pure emotion as they rocked out their final performance. Standing tall and proud on the velvet tarp, they received an eighth place. by Amanda Bohnenkemper

There are hundreds of good causes that one can choose to support in today's society. Students had the opportunity be helpful through several different organizations.

Octagon Club focused on serving the community. The main project that they completed was two blood drives. Through this, they were able to collect 184 units which helped to save about 550 lives.

National Honor Society helped with a bake sale and collected money for Haiti Shriners. Also, members were required to complete twenty service hours for the school and community.

The Radio-a-thon has been raising funds for Camp Care for over 15 years. This has been Junior Sivitan's main endeavor. Also, they supported a family at Christmas.

Environmental Club decided to assist in saving the manatees. They did this by having a bake sale. Additionally, members placed recycling bins in each of the classrooms for paper recycling.

The All-Stars were unique because they were really committed to helping the third graders. It was important to have the All-Stars because they were people that the young children looked up to and depended on. Children were influenced by the older people around them. When the teens spoke of the dangers of smoking and drinking, they listened to them. The teens had one activity they called All-Star-for-a-Day. The kids came to the school and had a blast with the teens exploring the school. Being an All-Star was an unforgettable

Linebacker Sam Linette said, "One of our many team mottos is play the next play." The meaning behind the quote is to get ready for the next play by obtaining the goal set for the first one. The Cats effortlessly won their 11th sectional and regional titles. When the semi-state game came around against Roncalli, the boys did their best. In the end they unfortunately lost, 9-14. Coach Tony Ahrens commented, "This season was full of thousands and thousands of good memories."

At the end of the season, seniors Dustin Schmitt earned the Contribution Award, Sam Linette the Mental Attitude Award, and Neil Dittmer the Most Improved Player Award.

Moving on to the next level of play was not just the goal for the JV team. Freshman players also showed dedication and teamwork on and off the court. At the close of the season, the underclassman team too left a winning season in the book with a 15-4 record. Throughout the entire season, including huge victories over Boonville and Castle, the Lady Wildcats played on the court with unity and passion. Stated by freshman player Morgan Neuhoﬀ, "We all had a lot of fun this year while working hard and putting in a great amount of effort."

Varsity volleyball did it again! They won their 17th sectional in a row as well as earning second place in conference and beating all county teams. "The Lady Cats are very competitive," said junior player Jessica Klein. Coach Nixon stated, "Casey Sermersheim (12) was the speaking captain and a good leader on the court." The girls enjoyed playing together this season. They struggled early in the year but kept working to learn from each other, and in the end they made it exciting. Many awards were given at the end of the season. All-Conference was earned by Casey Sermersheim, Kaisi Nixon (10), Maggie Boeckman (10), and Kelsey

On October 15, the Lady Cats made their mark by winning the first sectional in girls' soccer history. They defeated powerhouse Washington, 2-0, for the sectional title. They continued by defeating Bloomington South, 1-0, for the regional championship, earning a trip to semi-state. Assistant Coach Price commented, "They're a close-knit group. They generally had a very positive esprit de corps, but with eleven seniors who had been together for years, this was an especially focused group. The girls did not want their season to end."

As the season progressed, the team was balanced by the senior captains:

Abbey Mehringer, Jenna Keusch, Emily Hopf, and Cassey Wagner. They installed a new system that formed some confusion at the beginning of the season. However, the girls continued to improve, peaking at the end. Coach Price expressed, "At the season's end, we were the second best team in Southern Indiana. This season is the foundation for a dynasty."

Head Coach Steve Milligan summed up the season in just a few words, "This season was amazing!" After traveling 1,905 miles, spending approximately 39 hours traveling on the bus, and watching a total of 4,246 shots, the season for the girls' golf team came to an end. Beginning from the first practice, the team set many goals for the upcoming season. With leadership from two seniors, Brooke Schroeder and Brooke Hilsmeier, the team won Big Eight, qualified for regionals, and made an unexpected trip to the State finals. Another memorable feat for the Cats was defeating Memorial, who hadn't been beaten in a dual match for six years. The trip to Franklin for State was one not to forget. The team enjoyed the opportunity to play but fell short the first day. Brooke Schroeder commented, "I'm just glad to know that I can look back when I'm older and say that I made it to State!" Senior Brooke Hilsmeier said, "I won't forget the memories nor the accomplishments made. I enjoyed it all. That sums it up to a tee."

SHOOTING from here

"This team was a very likeable group of student athletes. They faced some adversity during the season, but they responded with great attitudes," stated Coach Tim LaGrange. The Cats were led by senior captains Luke Schmidt and Luke T. Mehringer. Throughout the season the boys were faced with setbacks such as injuries and illnesses. Coach LaGrange expressed, "Throughout it all, our team continued to work hard, stay coachable, and compete positively." The Cats ended their season with a 12-10 record. It was the eighth consecutive season of eleven wins or more and a .500 record or better. "I was most pleased with the way they finished the season," commented Coach LaGrange. The boys won their last five regular season games. Junior Troy Leinenbach had a historic contribution by shooting seventy-two percent from the field. It was the first time Jasper had a player shoot over seventy percent.

Despite the strong finish to their season, the boys did not triumph in tournament play. The Cats fell 46-53 to the Vincennes Alices in the opening game of sectional.

JV team finished with an 11-8 record. Coach Erny ended by saying, "The team gained an understanding of what we were trying to accomplish. The girls also competed very hard each and every game."

The freshman team had no problems getting off to a great start. With a beginning record of 5-0, the team was enlightened with an excellent attitude. Unfortunately, the freshman team would fall 0-9 its next games to wrap up the season. Coach Phil Kendall commented, "The team worked hard and will hopefully work even harder next year to become better players."

"Tough times will end but tough players will not," Coach Sonny Lents recited a motto that described the Lady Cats' season. The girls had hopes of improving each game, claiming a Big 8 title, and winning sectional. Team captains Catherine Loner (12), Elizabeth Seng (12), and Jill Seng (11) led the team by keeping everyone working toward their goals. The girls ended their season with a 7-16 record. Coach Lents expressed, "The team had a great overall attitude. As we gained experience, the team really improved." However, the Lady Cats fell short of their goals. They finished second to Vincennes in the Big 8 Conference. Despite their second place finish, the Lady Cats defeated Vincennes twice throughout the season. The girls had a successful sectional run, falling to Gibson Southern 37-49 in the final game.

At the end of the season, Jill Seng and Molly Jahn (11) were awarded All-Conference honors.

Elizabeth Seng received the Mental Attitude award. Janel Seng (9) had the best field goal percentage, and Abby Bartley (10) had the best three-point percentage.

The team's strong desire to succeed and the ability to always enjoy the moment led the team to a successful season. "Swimmers take your mark! Go!" From the start the Lady Cats had a standard set the previous season to meet and knew they had a lot of work ahead of them. Even with the abundance of pressure that faced the team, the positive attitude and great leadership by Kayla Sergesketter (11) and Maria Gramelspacher (11) laid the foundation for a successful season. Coach Vaughn commented on the team's attitude, "Everyone remained positive, even through some tough competition and event changes. We came together as a team early, and it helped make the season fun as well as successful."

The final record for the season left the girls with an 8-3 standing. Swimmers who made the All-

REVERSING from here

After losing to Southridge in last year's sectional for the first time in nine years, the Cats began this season ready to regain the title. With Coach Rick Stenftenagel's favorite quote of being "A Step Above" always in their mind, the wrestlers were able to achieve their goal. Along with bringing home the win over their rival Raiders, the team was able to tie the school record of individual champions at seven. As a team the Cats continued to win at team regionals, but were stopped short of a State appearance by defending State champions Mater Dei in their semi-state competition. Even though they were unable to make the notorious trip to Indianapolis, the team ended the season ninth in the State.

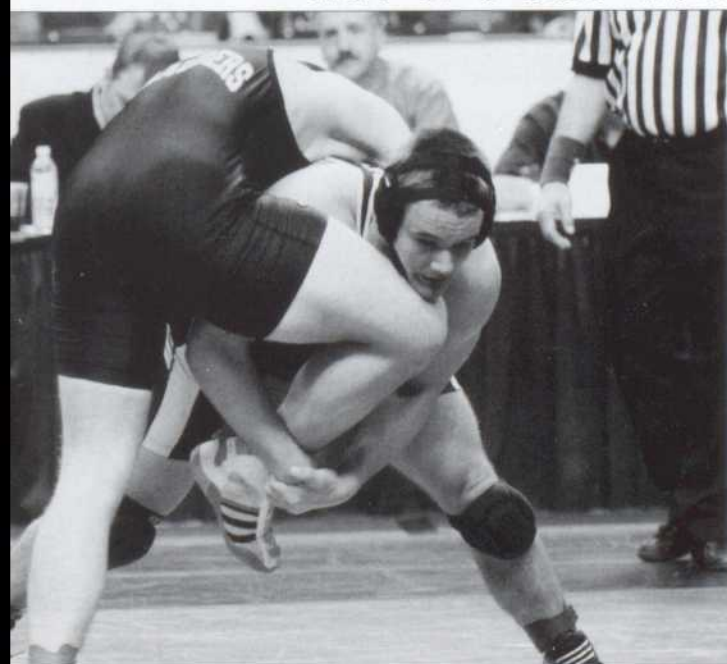

Jeff Miller (11) grimaces while wrestling against Brandon Harrison of Tell City. Jeff went on to lose in a close upset (3-4) versus his opponent.

In individual play the wrestlers continued to excel. After sending twelve wrestlers on to regionals at Jeffersonville, four made the cut to continue on to semi-state. This team of athletes included Jeremy Steinhart (10), Jeff Miller (11), Sean Brescher (12), and Jonathan Seger (12), along with alternates Cameron Betz (10) and Heath Messier (11). From here Sean and Jonathan wrestled their way to State, where they both captured fourth place finishes that earned them the title of team MVPs.

Fundamentals were the name of the game for the junior varsity and freshman baseball teams. At the beginning of the season, the teams focused on learning the basics of the game. It was the boys' belief that the "little things" were what made a difference in the long run. It was a goal of the season to play like a Jasper High School baseball player. "Just watching the kids improve from the start of the season when they were overwhelmed with information to the time they won the invitational was great," stated coach Jason Ahlbrand.

Individually, the team was led by pitchers Pete Wilson (10) and Ross Brosmer (9). Nick Messier (9) also helped the team in hitting, while Matthew Getzin (10) and Ryan Lichlyter (9) stood out in fielding.

The young players had great role models at the varsity level and many enjoyed learning from them. Matthew commented, "My favorite part of the season was watching the State game and realizing that is what I want to try to accomplish during my varsity career."

THROWING from here

At the beginning of the season the girls' softball team set a goal of improving its mental game and making the effort to overcome any adversity that arose. These thoughts stayed with them as tools for success as they went the farthest in tournament play in program history.

The team ended the season with many memories made, none that will soon be forgotten by the athletes. The season began with a 285-mile trip to Alabama, where the team competed against powerhouse Muscle Shoals and began growing into the family they would soon become. After returning, the Cats tallied up a 20-5 record, including a championship win in the Jasper Invitational and being ranked (12th) for the first time in program history. By tournament time the Cats were determined to bring home the second sectional title in JHS softball history, which they captured after beating defending State champs Gibson Southern, 1-0. However, the team was stopped short of a State appearance when the team lost to Boonville, 2-1, in the regional game.

Ending with an outstanding season was the girls' track team. The three biggest goals of the season were to defend the Big 8 championship, win sectional, and have State contenders. The girls were able to achieve all three goals, winning sectional for the first time in fourteen years, placing fourth at regionals, and advancing five individuals to State. At State Brogan Mehringer (11) competed in discus, Natasha Nelson (10) in long jump, Maria Gramelspacher (11) in the 1600, Lacey Oeding (10) in the 3200, and Kaisi Nixon (10) in the 300 hurdles. Nine members were selected for the Big 8 All-Conference team.

Four school records were broken along the way. The 3200 relay team of Maria, Lacey, Kristy Shaw (11), and Katy Kohls (10) ran in a time of 9:59.26. Maria also broke the record in the 1600 with a time of 5:12.76 while Lacey ran the 3200 in 11:26.01. Hannah Apple (12) set a new pole vault height of 8'6".

Coach Schaeffer commented, "The girls pushed each other at practice and meets. They peaked at tournament time, and this was key to our success."

Lacey Oeding (10) rounds the last turn of her leg in the 3200 meter relay. Besides breaking two school records, Lacey was acknowledged with the Die Hard Award.

Head Coach Steve Milligan expressed the season as being what most golf teams would have wanted: they finished their play of golf in Franklin at the State Finals. Before even getting to the State Finals, the team battled for many triumphs. From injuries with Todd Kuper (12) and Tyson Kalb (10) to inexperience with sophomores Ben Krempp, Seth Leinenbach, and Clayton Boyles, the Cats knew it would be hard to accomplish their goals. With the team having an excellent attitude, and along with leadership from Todd Kuper and junior Eric Skillman, the team excelled. The Cats won sectional and then advanced out of regionals to make an appearance at the State finals. "Even though we did not do as well as we would have liked, it was a fun and memorable experience. It was definitely an honor just to be there," stated Eric. With a season record of 84-45, Coach Steve Milligan stated, "It was definitely exciting and impressive because I watched every player grow up and gain experience. I look forward to what we have learned this year to help us next year."

Senior Todd Kuper blasts his shot out of the sand. Todd showed his leadership skills by leading the team to a 84-45 record.

Junior Jonathan Uebelhor stares at his shot from the woods. Jonathan was one of the few older members on the golf team.

ACING from here

"Nobody works as hard as we do," was the team's motto. All of the girls worked very hard and excelled immensely. Some goals the team had were to win Big 8 and earn a berth in State finals. The girls played their best and made it to semi-state but lost. Abby Merkel (12) and Brooke Hilsmeier (12) were the team captains. Coach Yarbrough said that the girls worked well as a team, and the two seniors set a good example at practice.

The girls continued to progress throughout the season. They played their best at tournaments. Coach said, "Even though we lose to some of the higher ranked teams, we learned and improved. The girls were much more dedicated." The team had the most talent ever with eleven girls pushing for the seven starting positions.

All twenty of the players became very close friends making the team a tight unit. The girls said that practices were quite intense, but it helped them to better improve their game. The girls continued a tradition of a "Tennis Family," helping to pull the team together through the more difficult matches.

Maggie Boeckman (10) goes to slam the ball and score a point. Maggie was the number one singles player for the team.

Alex Chamberlain (9), Janel Seng (9), Lydia Schroeder (9), and Stephanie Seger (10) keep records for their teammates.

to Vincennes University for the NCA Cheerleading camp. The varsity squad took top honors by winning Top Team and Champion Chant. The freshman and JV squads followed by claiming the same titles. All of the girls were nominated for the All-American team. Eleven out of twenty received the honors. Individually, sophomore Natasha Nelson stunned the competition by claiming Best Cheerleader, Best Tumbler, and Top All-American.

The cheerleaders also competed at the 4-H competition. The varsity came out on top of its division. The freshman and JV squads joined forces to also claim first place in their division. After summer competitions, the girls switched gears and began practicing chants for football and basketball seasons. The varsity squad competed at the State level and earned a second place finish. Jenna Seger (12) commented, "Cheerleading isn't just about cheering. I've grown spiritually and mentally. Cheerleading has also taught me to be a good role model."

INNOVATION

here in our INSTITUTION

by Danielle Kunkel

“Looking back on this year, I can honestly say it's been one not to forget. Whether it was going to State in golf, excelling in the classroom, or a night out with friends, the memories can only create a spectacular view.”

-Paige Schroeder (10)

Seniors Joe Wagner and Kyle Peter act as commentators for the football and soccer players' big game. The competition ended in a tie.

It seemed just yesterday the seniors took the first strides into their alma mater, most of them leaving behind childish ways and moving towards adulthood. As the school year came to a close, students found themselves scared to step out into the real world, away from the security of the eight o'clock bell, but excited nevertheless.

Our school was shown spirit added with diversity and a sense of humor. Whether students were athletes, geniuses, or just regular teenagers forced by parents to come to school, each and every day they united for the pleasure and joy of learning. So many individuals who walked these hallways and sat in these bleachers will one day accomplish great feats.

The years to come will only bring, "Do you remember whens?" and "I can't believe I did thats..." but students will always keep a special place in their hearts for JHS.

Brooke Hilsmeier (12) and Alie Messmer (12) perform during the Shakespearean Festival. They acted out a part from "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

Trent Leinenbach (12) and Jodie Hasenour (11) shake it wild at Prom. They both enjoyed dancing and attending Post Prom.

The boys' baseball team receives a pep talk from Coach Gobert. Team members laughed as he attempted to raise spirits and build confidence. Ending their season in June by winning State was the perfect way to conclude the school year.

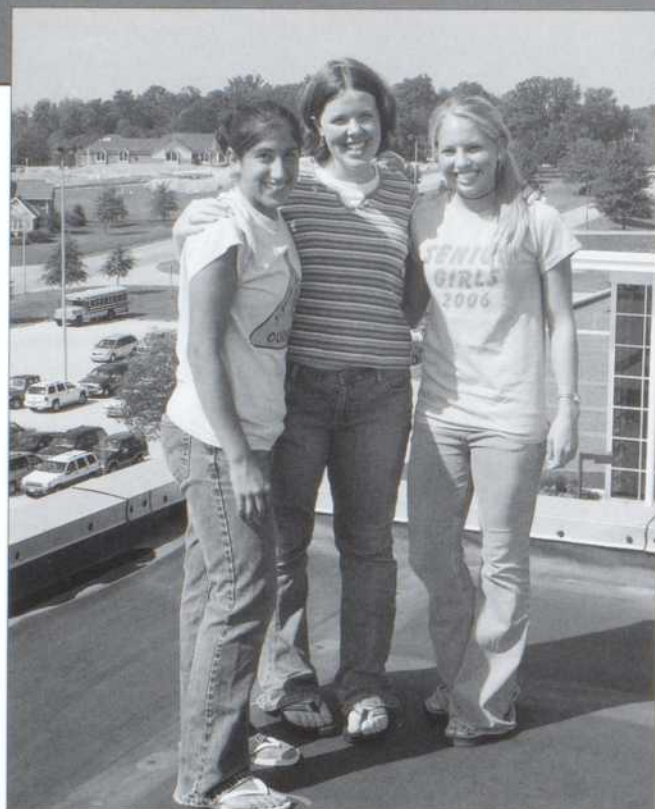

Amanda Taylor (12) designs and paints a mural for the locker room. The theme for the mural was basketball.

"J" STAFF

Hours in front of the computer screen, writing stories, attending games to take pictures, and interviewing students and staff are a few examples of what went into these pages. The "J" Staff worked both during the school day and in the evening and morning hours. Sixteen students in grades ten through twelve came together to compose this piece of work. We dedicated our time into forming a creative bent that represented this past year. It is our hope that our efforts have forever engraved memories into these pages of history. With this, we shall never forget about "The View from Here."
