And you know what you know.
You are the guy who'll decide where to go.

Class Clown

Tori Sermersheim & Grant Brescher

The class of 2014 has been making memories for many years. From Freshman Dance to Senior Week, traditions abound at JHS. This legendary group of students, however, didn't always stick to the mold. They made their own path and established new traditions such as spending a day at Holiday World, while still keeping to old traditions like mud volleyball. For many, these were final bonding moments before they all split ways and headed out to see what the world has in store for them. No matter how far they roam, however, they will never forget the memorable moments and the people who helped mold them into who they are today.

Most Talkative

Chloe Sibrel & Luke Hoffman

What was your favorite memory from high school?

"Getting married to Nick Montee and having Mr. Wilson interrupt with the pledge in the middle of our Shakesfest play."

-Bobby Racey

Graduation Class of 2014

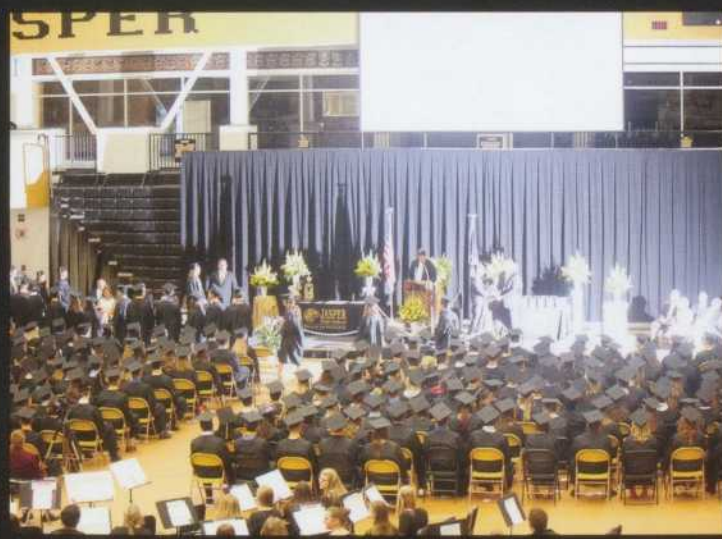

The Valedictorian for the class of 2014 was Luke Upton. Angelica Ariens was named Salutatorian. The two teamed up with a speech about how we all have to work together to achieve our goals and how we compete with one another to get where we want to be.

THE GOOD, THE BAD, AND THE FROSH-

Questions for the newest high school class:

What's the best and worst thing about being a freshman at JHS?

-Jesse Fromme-
"Marching band was great, but there's a bigger workload this year."

-Delaney Saalman-
"I like how I don't have to do homework, but just being a freshman is not fun."

-Everitt Jones-
"Football was the greatest, but I was still only a freshman."

-Tessa Hemmerlein-
"Color guard was a lot of fun, but it was also hard, so it fits both categories."

Transitioning to New Teachers

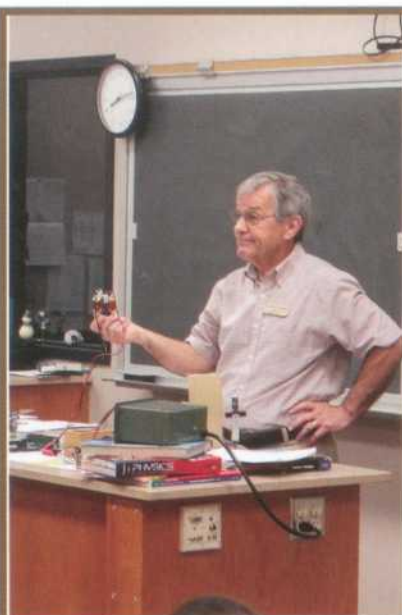

Mrs. Milligan started her new job as the study hall teacher this year. She has enjoyed it so far and has done an excellent job. Though she sometimes runs into trouble with talkative students, she commented that she is trying to "press upon the students that people have to study, to be kind and respectful to their fellow classmates as well as myself." She also happens to be the varsity volleyball coach, saying, "I love coaching, and it's a huge passion of mine."

A Tradition of Passionate Educators

Ms. Burns, a truly dedicated Choir, Psychology, and Ethics teacher, was honored as a Peabody Leader in Education on January 17, 2014. For many years, she has been a kind and inspiring teacher here at JHS. On that night, she was finally rewarded for the great things that she has done for her students. To be awarded with this honor, an individual must be nominated by her peers, students, and administrators. This award shows just how much of an influence she has had on her students and peers. She will be honored later in the fall with a banquet where she will be eligible to be selected as an outstanding regional educator. The entire JHS body is very proud of all the things that Ms. Burns has done for this school. She has been and continues to be a positive influence on countless lives.

Mr. Ken Johanning
The BEST teacher ever
with a degree in Aerospace Engineering.

Favorite day at JHS? "It would be the day when I was doing a chemistry demonstration and put a little too big a piece of sodium in a beaker of water. The resulting explosion has left burn marks in the ceiling!"

It was after years of helping his own boys out with their homework that the idea of becoming a teacher dawned on Mr. Johanning. He started his teaching career in 1994 at the juvenile detention facility in Vincennes. After a short stint there, he taught for 12 years at North Harrison High School. After that, he moved to teach at Jasper High School where he spent many years inspiring young minds. Mr. Johanning taught many different courses throughout his years as a teacher. He taught math, physics, Algebra, Geometry, and Pre-Cal.

Many things have changed since he became a teacher. In the beginning, there were not nearly as many rules and regulations as there are now. Also, it seems as if he doesn't have as much time to cover all the material he would like to, but somehow he manages. He has also had an impact on a variety of students as well. He remembers one particular student who he tried to help out with some of her problems. Now this same girl is a loving mother and a pharmacist. He to this day is proud of what she has become but very humble about the role he played in her life. Mr. Johanning has left a wonderful legacy and impacted countless lives. He will be greatly missed.

Retirement

Mrs. Leah Tooley
One of the GREATEST counselors to ever come to JHS.

Why did you want to become a counselor?
"I wanted to be a school social worker because I care about kids and the stress they are under. I wanted to be able to help them develop the tools they need to live a happy and prosperous life."

Mrs. Tooley began her long career 34 years ago as a social work specializing in mental health. She has worked at all of the high schools in Dubois County. She began counseling teenagers because she was able to get along well with them and believed that she could help to teach them the valuable life skills that they need to get through life. She started counseling here at JHS about 20 years ago. She ended up loving her job so much that coming to JHS every day became her favorite memory while working here. She has been able to remember most, if not all, of the students that she has helped while at JHS, and she will look back on each one with fond memories. Each student that she has helped will also have fond memories of this wonderful and caring individual.

Mr. Mike Fowler the BEST Law-Enforcement
teacher this side of St.
Charles Street.

What was your favorite memory at JHS?
"Riding my motorcycle onto the basketball floor with the mascot on back, as well as interacting with the students."

Mr. Fowler began his career as a police officer. He was a police officer for around 22 years before he made the switch to becoming a teacher. He first started teaching in August of 2002, so he has been teaching for about 12 years. Before he started teaching at JHS, however, he taught at Indiana Law Enforcement

Academy and Indiana Drug Enforcement Association. Then he began his high school teaching career here at JHS where he is also in charge of security. Mr. Fowler has always thought that all of his students were special and important. He is especially proud of all those who did eventually become police officers themselves. JHS students and staff are grateful for Mr. Fowler's work in the classroom as well as behind the scenes keeping our school safe.

Academics

THE OFFICE STAFF is a group that we definitely need to thank for the success of this school. From directing your phone calls to answering questions about your classes or schedules, these people do it all. Mr. Brian Wilson and Mr. Glenn Buechlein help hold the school together.

Mr. Sean Jochum and Mr. Brian Uebelhor are there for you when you need help with a class change or just a friend to talk with. If it weren't for Mrs. Hillory Werner, we would not have the outstanding attendance records that we have today. We also need to thank Mrs. Deb Schum, Mrs. Tina Hilgediek, and Mrs. Leah Tooley for their hard work and their efforts in making the students of JHS have better days. This year, Mrs. Schum was also recognized as the winner of the Peabody Award for inspiring students at JHS.

OFFICES

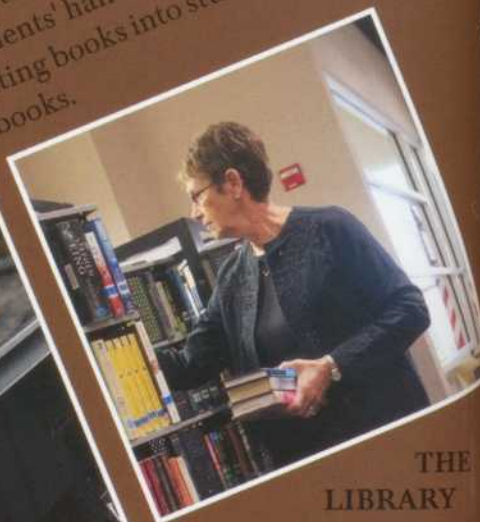

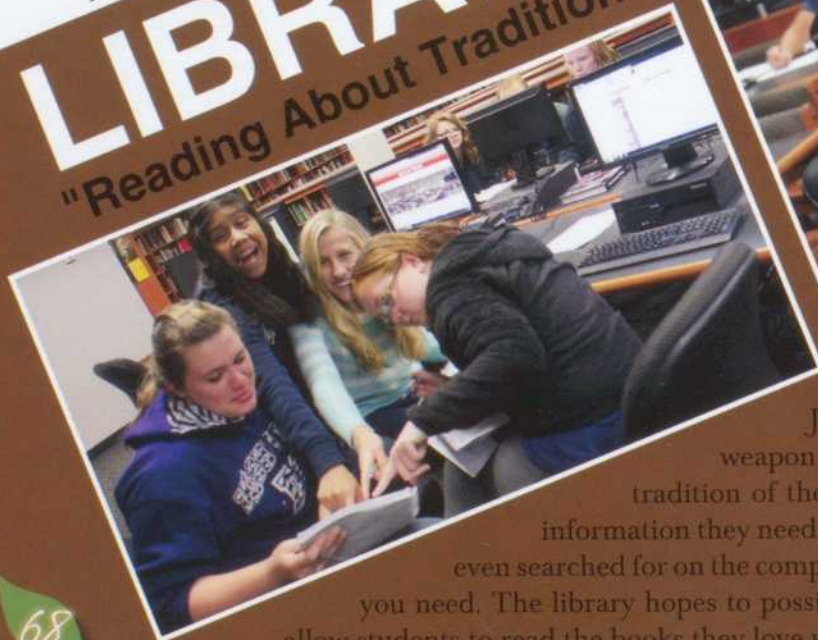

"Advancing our Traditions"

The office staff here at JHS is a group of people who have a particular love for kids. Mr. Uebelhor says, "I have the best job here at the school. When kids walk through my door, they need my help. I love to be the one that has an answer to their questions. If they have a question, or even 50 questions, Mr. Jochum and I are happy to help!" There are many traditions that take place in the office, such as the Christmas tree that is put up in the office every year following Thanksgiving break. Another tradition loved by many of the other staff members is Mr. Jochum's "compulsively neat office," states Mr. Uebelhor.

The library holds the important tradition of bringing the learning power of books into students' hands. We are hoping to transition into a new form of getting books into students' hands by trying it out online with E-books.

LIBRARY

"Reading About Traditions"

THE LIBRARY

is a place filled with many great traditions here at Jasper High School. The library not only holds a countless number of books—it is also the home base of our very own Mrs. Hurm, the librarian. Mrs. Hurm helps students as well as staff at JHS. Although many students may not know, she is a secret weapon in keeping our school running as we know it. An important tradition of the library is being a place where students can go to find the information they need, no matter the topic. Whether the information is in a book or even searched for on the computer, the library has proven that it can help you find whatever you need. The library hopes to possibly transition to E-books in the near future. E-books would allow students to read the books they love while eliminating late returns and damaged books.

Though some of the classes are only every other year, the traditions in art mostly deal with the projects. The scratch off, the continuous line drawings, coil pots, tape sculptures, head sculptures, 'small' looms, and 'big' looms, and macrame are some of the main and most important projects of the classes. Each different art class has entirely different projects, and none have really changed over the years. Students look forward to transitioning from one class to the next. The teachers hope to see improvement with the students and their projects throughout the semester or the year.

ART

"Sculpting Our Traditions"

(1) In ceramics, seniors, Nora Hopf and Makala Osterman joke around as they mold their coil pots.

(2) Moriah Kaiser (10) pauses in the middle of her project to put her hair up, as Haley Hostetter (10) is focusing on her drawing in the "Every-other-year" drawing class.

(3) Not willing to do a natural pose for the yearbook, freshmen Nellie Mowat and Hannah Ryberg insist on making pencil mustaches rather than complete their drawings for Intro. to 2D Art.

(4) Kaci Foertsch (12) weaves the second part for a pillow that she and her partner are sending a German Exchange student, who left for Germany shortly after school started.

In business class, Mrs. Kunz and Mrs. Schipp do a great job at teaching these students what they came to learn. Not only do they teach business, they also sponsor the BPA Club. Besides the knowledge of business, students also come out with a greater ability to communicate and form relationships.

BUSINESS

Transitioning to Professionalism

When asked about transitions the BPA Club made this year, Mrs. Kunz responded, "We recruited 92 members this year. That's the most we've ever had!"

Engineering and technology classes are related in the fact that they think of, design, and create new things that make people's lives easier. Technology may use computers and software, and engineering may use nails and sandpaper, but they are both truly similar in the fact that we couldn't do without them. Students enjoy a multitude of projects and the opportunity to work with their hands as well as their minds. Creativity and imagination are keys to success as well as the ability to read and follow directions. Developing these skills at the high school level will help these students find success in their future careers.

ENGINEERING & TECH

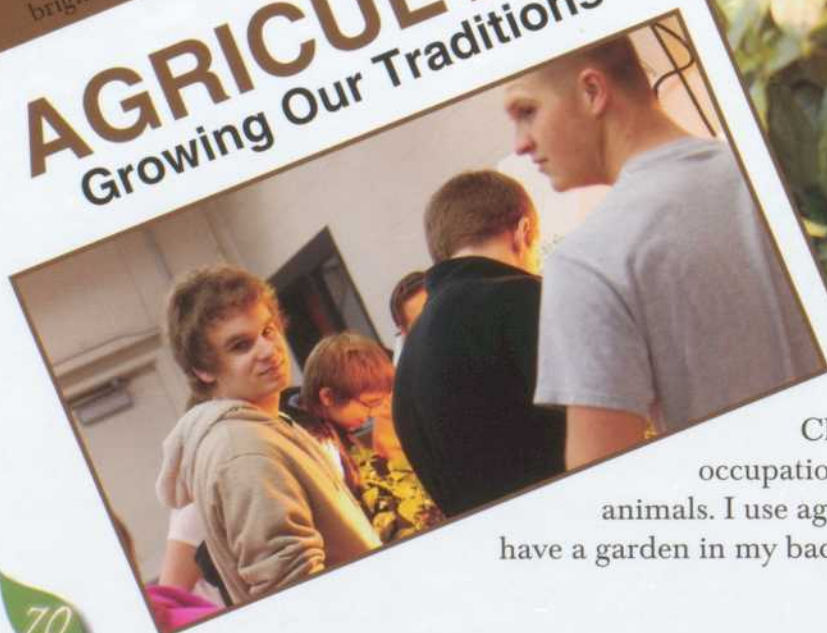

Building Our Traditions

Jasper has always had a strong tradition of empowering students to become engineers. With the variety of engineering colleges and the demand of more engineering jobs, these students are headed towards a bright future.

"My view is, agriculture is the center of every man, woman, and child and adds diversity to the classes we have here at Jasper High School." - Agriculture teacher Mr. Haycox

AGRICULTURE

Growing Our Traditions

Students in Ag classes enjoy a variety of projects including raising baby chicks and growing plants. They learn about what it means to take care of the land and animals. According to Chandin Bravo, "Agriculture is a science, art, or an occupation involving raising crops and feeding or breeding animals. I use agriculture in my life to conserve natural resources. I also have a garden in my backyard, and one time I had the chance to pet a cow."

ENGLISH

Writing and Reading Traditions

(far right) Jasmine Ramos slices bacon to put in her dish created with the help of her kitchen team. Family and Consumer Sciences is a class that helps students prepare to take care of themselves as well as others.

Mixing Our FACS Traditions

In the freshman English classes, students enjoy celebrating Greek culture with The Odyssey as well as acting out Romeo and Juliet and scenes from the novel Monster. Sophomore students have fun dressing up and acting out Shakespeare's Julius Caesar. Junior students get to experience novels such as Fahrenheit 451 and Of Mice and Men. Senior students have a blast doing the Shakespearean Festival each year.

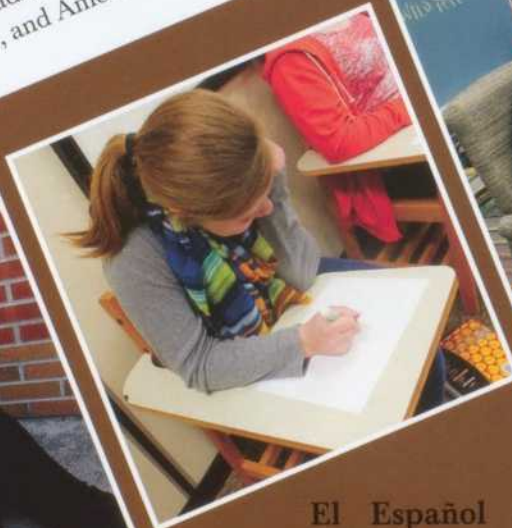

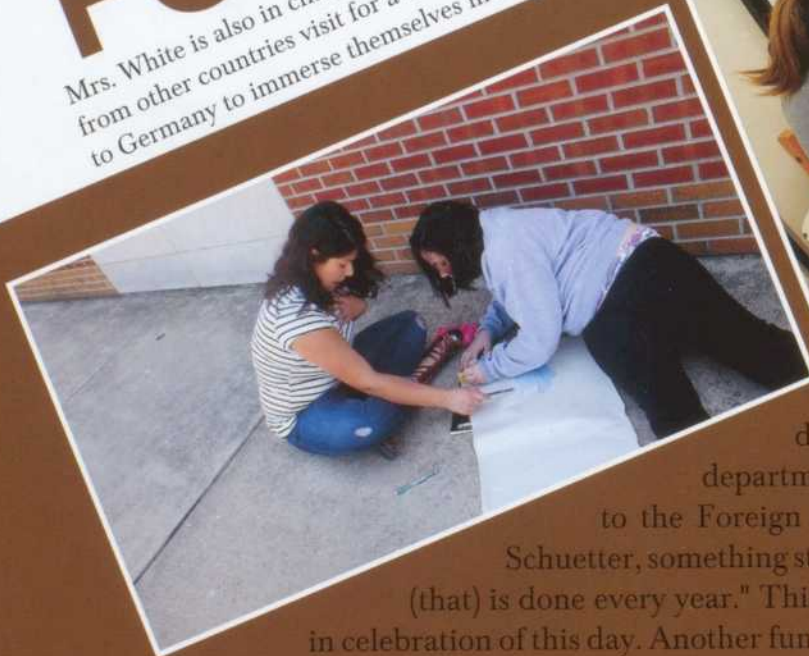

Bonjour! Mr. Rottet's sense of humor truly shines in French class. French students enjoy getting some fresh air and interacting with each other and their teacher while learning to speak the language of love. While Mr. Rottet remains ever himself, students look forward to transitioning to new textbooks next year. The first year in French, students learn basics of vocabulary, conjugating verbs, and Passe Compose. Every year at Christmas time the French classes make Yule Logs which are cakes that look like a log. In German Class, Mrs. White's students get to know each other by creating a family tree. Many Jasper students can trace their family line back to their German ancestors.

FOREIGN LANGUAGE

Transitioning to New Cultures

Mrs. White is also in charge of the German Exchange: a tradition at JHS where students from other countries visit for a few weeks or a school year, and American students travel to Germany to immerse themselves in the culture.

El Español derige a muchas cosas maravillosas! (There are many wonderful things to do in Spanish class!) This year, teachers in the Spanish department are transitioning into new roles. The newest addition to the Foreign Language family is Mrs. Schuetter. According to Mrs. Schuetter, something students look forward to is "the Day of the Dead Celebration (that) is done every year." This year, students got to display the butterflies they colored in celebration of this day. Another fun activity in the spring is when she teaches her classes Latin dances.

P.E./HEALTH

"A Strong Tradition"

Swimming, basketball, and working out in the weight room are all things students count on in a week of P.E. A class where it's okay to get up and run around, P.E. can always be counted on to be a "vacation" from your textbooks.

Health class is where you go when you want to learn about life. With your daily worksheets, you will learn everything you need to know about yourself, and your surroundings. You will study about fitness, personal health, and how to keep yourself in good health.

Social Studies carries the tradition of learning about our past as well as studying the present in order to achieve a brighter future. Each year, Frankie Ebenkamp, a WWII veteran, visits the World History classes to talk about his time spent on Iwo Jima (photos 2 and 3 below). Mrs. Ferguson's US History classes dressed up as hippies for a day during the counterculture chapter this year and ran around to all of the classes with Donald Bough playing guitar and Lydia Schmitt playing ukulele, spreading the love and aiming to "end the war" (photos 1 and 4 below). The students of our generation will be able to reach new and even greater heights than those of our ancestors. Some may even create new content for history books for future generations!

SOCIAL STUDIES

Learning Traditions to Benefit Our Future

Social Studies carries on many great traditions that help students transition into their futures. They learn about things from all across the world, from the Americas to Europe, Asia, Africa, as well as everything in between.

SCIENCE

Experimenting for the Future

Science is a wonderful subject to learn; it carries the tradition of learning and experimenting with the world around you. Each year, students enjoy the tradition of dissecting frogs (some more than others).

Science is the way of knowing. One main tradition we carry on through science is using experiments and valuable testing to prove many unanswered questions and experiments around the world. One of the main things we study in science is the body, or more importantly, the cell and the way cells function and help our body in many different ways. Without science, this world would be one big unproven factor.

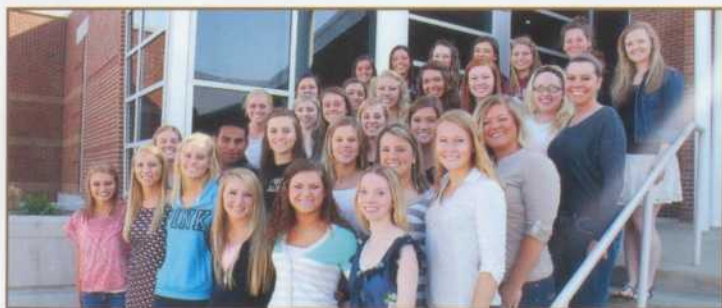

VOCATIONAL/HOSA

Transitioning to the Workforce

Students who are interested in certain careers are able to take a class that provides the training they would need for that specific career. Child care, welding, mechanics, cadet teaching, community service, and HOSA are some of the classes that are currently offered.

In vocational classes, it's all about preparing students for their future in that particular area. In auto mechanics, they learn about working on cars, trucks, and tractors. In cadet teaching, they learn about what it's like to be in the classroom with students. They also learn different teaching techniques and how to function in classes as a teacher. In child care, students get hands-on experience with taking care of small children. Health Occupations Students of America (HOSA) intern at the hospital as well as put in hours in the classroom learning about their future health care careers.

Always putting the needs of others first, students in the HOSA program, decided to start a new tradition this year of donating to Locks of Love. Several area professional hairdressers came in during the school day to lop off locks from any willing student or staff member.

MR. ELROD HAS succeeded in teaching his classes the fundamentals of radio and television production. The members of the classes are now able to successfully identify the differences in stereo and mono, depths of field, transducers and amplifiers, dynamic mics and condenser mics, and when to use what light source. With over 60 students in his classes, Mr. Elrod has helped his students manage our school's public radio station with a variety of hits from the 80's and 90's. 93.7 The Scratch has grown with the help of Mr. Elrod, and the dedication of his students. Between music coordination, organization of files, and the DJs, we are able to make The Scratch a great student run radio station.

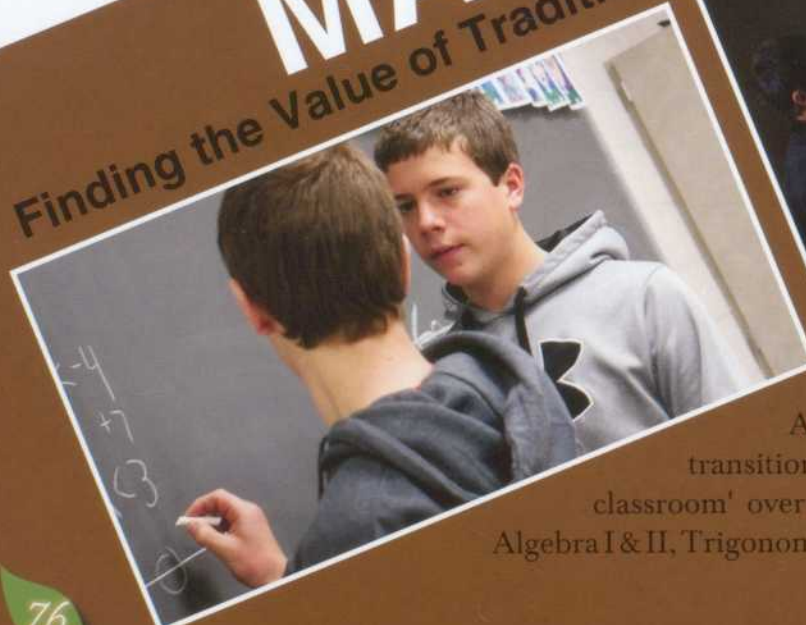

RADIO/TV

Recording Our Traditions

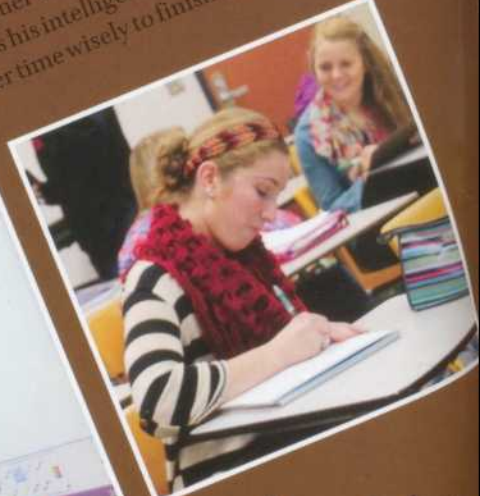

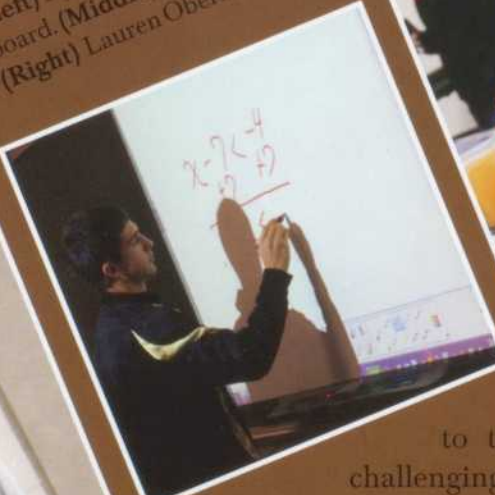

Wildcat Weekly is the result of hard work and productions put on by the Radio/TV classes. Every other week, 1st, 2nd, and 3rd periods alternate putting on shows during Wednesday homeroom. Each week, students enjoy a great show of skits like, Patches & Ivan, Joked, Weather, and many more.

MATH

Finding the Value of Traditions

As students transition from one year to the next, they find more challenging problems to solve and new technology to help them along the way. Mrs. Stenftenagel stated, "With technology, including our Apple TV's, our iPads, and our computers, I hope to transition into incorporation of more of the ideas of a 'flipped classroom' over time." Some traditional math classes at JHS include Algebra I & II, Trigonometry, Geometry, Probability and Statistics, and Calculus.

LIFE SKILLS

Transitioning to Life Outside of School

Going around town volunteering time to help with local stores, helping in our own school, and taking mini field trips around Jasper to have some fun are just a few traditions of the Life Skills class.

Each year, students enjoy a wide variety of traditions from painting Easter eggs to helping out at local businesses. The helpers and the teachers in the class hope that their students grow and accomplish something they've never done. All in all, they just want them to learn how to be responsible and be prepared for the real world. Throughout the year, they take multiple trips and do various activities (cont. bottom left)

Student Council

An "Others First" Tradition

On Wednesdays during homeroom, you may see some students around the school picking up trash and recyclables from every room. These dedicated servant-leaders are known as the Student Council. They have fun together helping the school out and addressing the needs of the student body. These elected officials understand that true leaders think of the well-being of others first.

The annual Thanksgiving dinner is a delicious tradition and opportunity for the Student Council to serve their constituents. A lot of preparation and hard work goes into feeding the entire student body during both lunches! This is just one of many ways these student leaders make a difference. Many thanks to STUCO for making JHS an even better place!

GSA

ENFORCING EQUALITY FOR ALL

The Gay Straight Alliance of JHS works hard each year to raise awareness and achieve equality between the LGBTQ and straight communities. The GSA created large signs with inspirational quotes and hung them around the school, the largest sign being in the cafeteria. This year, the GSA sold candy every day at lunch and hosted its first writing contest, which was won by senior Addison Nolan. A few members also attended the Pride Prom in Evansville. On April 11th, the Day of Silence was held for the second year at JHS.

Back row: Conner Hessler, Jesse Fromme, Cade Heaton, Randi Zehr, and Alex Cassidy.

SINCE IT BEGAN last year, the "Day of Silence" has become an important annual tradition at JHS. On the Day of Silence, students pledge to not speak for the entire school day in order to raise awareness for members of the LGBTQ community who feel as if they have no voice as a result of bullying and harrassment.

UNICEF

A Tradition of Helping Those in Need

An awesome tradition that UNICEF participates in is trick-or-canning. They go around Jasper and collect cans of food to give to people who need a little extra help around the holidays. "My favorite part about UNICEF is dressing up and helping people," stated Faith Sendelweck (11).

Mr. Dodd has sponsored UNICEF for 4 years now. When they went trick- or- canning they had a variety of costumes. They all have fun and enjoy helping others!

Key Club

A Tradition of Supporting Key Causes

Key Club is a club designed for students that like to do community service. All throughout the year, Key Club does many projects. One tradition of this group is ringing the bell for the Salvation Army. They sit at the front of stores and collect donations from people to help the Salvation Army. This year, Maddi Robbling was also elected as State Governor of Key Club, the first ever from JHS to be elected for such an honorable position.

Junior Achievement

Achieving Greater Traditions

Junior Achievement is a business oriented group that works together in teams to create different products. Each team creates a business plan to sell their product, puts this plan into action, and then determines if their business was successful. This year the two main products sold were travel mugs and power cords. Lots of great friends are made, and business lessons are learned each year!

SADD

Traditions aren't SADD

SADD stands for Students Against Destructive Decisions. Every year, SADD hosts a week dedicated to helping spread awareness for the damage that drugs can cause, Red Ribbon Week. This year, SADD has a new president, Kelsey Graman. She is in charge of the entire club, with the help of Mrs. Schipp. To the right, Kelsey Graman is making a schoolwide announcement about the dangers of alcohol. The club also sponsored a guest speaker who spoke about making good decisions and setting yourself up for success.

Peer Mentors

A Tradition of Setting the Example

The Peer Mentors are the upperclassmen who help the freshmen transition into life in high school. The Peer Mentors help teach freshmen the lyrics to the school song and answer any questions they may have about high school. These younger students will hopefully carry on that tradition in the future and become the students who help new freshmen transition just as they did.

(Left) Rachel Bounds (12), Katie Krempp (12), Sydney Berger (12), and Jackson Beckman (12) get together to warn the future generation about drug use and abuse. They carefully go through and teach them about D.A.R.E, what it does, and why they participate in the program.

THE FRESHMEN gather around their older leaders and discuss the important things they will need to know. One of the most important of these things is peer pressure. They are taught to not give in and to not allow others to influence them to make decisions that could negatively impact their lives.

"The Crew"

D.A.R.E. to be Different

"The Crew", another name for the Peer Mentors is known for promoting and modeling healthy behavior in the community. They help promote things like D.A.R.E. to younger children so that they learn the dangers of drug use and abuse. This group does everything that it can to help others because the best way to make the world a better place is by helping each other.

ELEMENTARY STUDENTS

gather around as the Crew members go to their class in order to tell them about D.A.R.E. and about how they should stay drug free. The police also work together with The Crew in order to teach the young kids about the dangers of drug abuse.

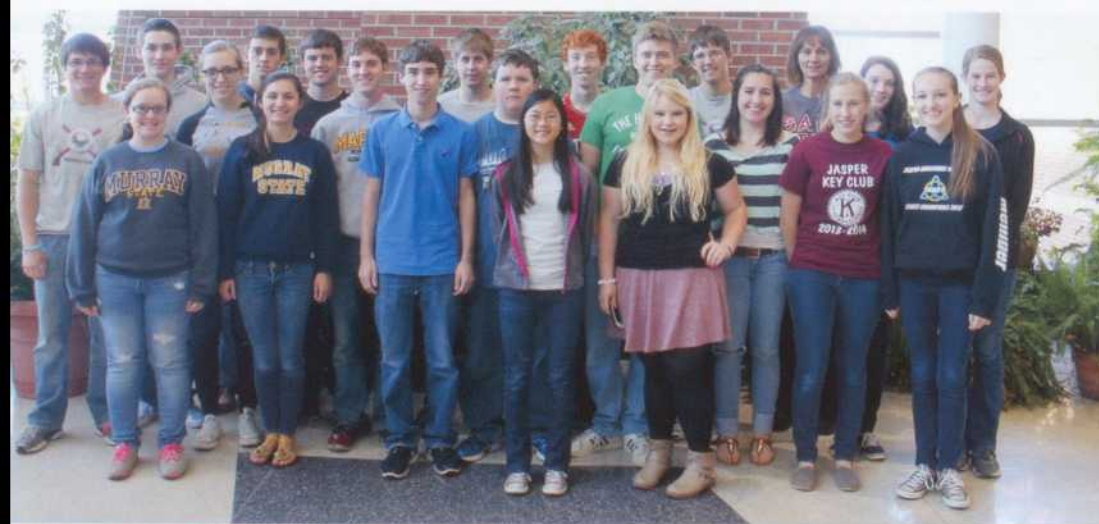

Math Club

Calculating Mathematical Traditions

The name suggests that members of the Math Club (AKA the 'Mathletes') organize meetings to solve equations together, but, believe it or not, doing math isn't what being a Mathlete is all about. Each year, the Math Club hosts a Yahtzee tournament in November. They also sell slices of pie at lunch to celebrate Pi Day on March 14th. Word on the street is the Mathletes have the best club shirts every year, too!

AT THIS YEAR'S Yahtzee tournament, members and non-members had a blast playing Yahtzee and watching "Full House" reruns in the JHS Community Room. In the final game, freshman Daisy Magee (far left) defeated freshman Emma Watson and seniors Luke J. Hochgesang and Jake Day, winning a $20 Visa gift card.

NHS

A Tradition of Honor

The National Honor Society has been around for a long time, representing achievement and excellence for all high school students, regardless of gender or ethnicity. It's full of tradition, including the annual ceremony for its members. This ceremony commends those who exemplify academic achievement, personal advancement, and community awareness.

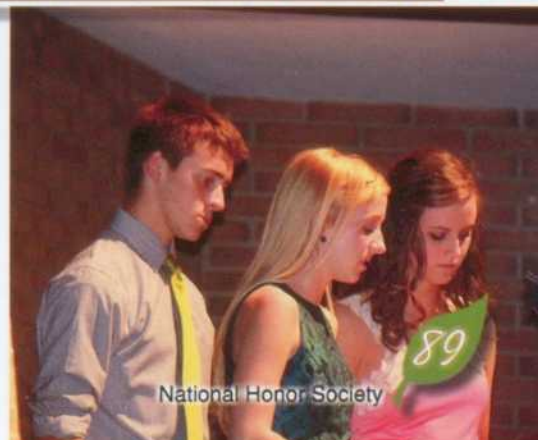

The entire National Honor Society stands on the front steps of the high school after their ceremony. The NHS honors four "pillars", or values for their students. These include scholarship, leadership, community awareness, and character. Simply getting good grades is not enough to succeed in this time-honored group.

SOFA

Painting our Traditions

SOFA, not like a couch, but more like a Society Of Fine Arts, is an art club for students who want more than just your average art class. They want to take their artistic abilities to the next level. In SOFA, these students take the time to help organize activities like the Color Run, paint murals, and even go on trips to visit art museums. This club is all about bringing out your inner creativity and having fun.

Destination Imagination

IMAGINING THE POSSIBILITIES

Destination Imagination is all about teamwork, creativity, and having fun. Teams choose one central challenge to compete in (challenges with topics like technology and fine arts). This year, JHS had one team- Motivational Force. They rejoiced in 'pandemonium' and 'dug in' to their challenges (challenge names). They had the chance to compete with teams from all over the world. Trading pins with those teams and creating duct tape costumes for a duct tape ball were all traditions that they carried on. And, of course, they transitioned into their new challenge this year. But no matter what difficulties they faced, Motivational Force became a real force to reckon with this year.

Julie (12) and Noelle (9) Weyer enjoy a break from their hard labor. The Weyer sisters enjoy working on projects together and competing as a team.

F.C.A.

A TRADITION OF FAITH AND FELLOWSHIP

"[The Fellowship of Christian Athletes is] an organization that makes outreach a priority, to bring other students to Christ," says Mr. Land, the F.C.A. sponsor. Members are strong in their faith and their sports, and they make it their mission to promote their fellowship to other students. Every year they bring in guest speakers to share their faith. This year they had the opportunity to work under new leadership: Thad Harmon. But no matter what changes, F.C.A. members will always stay strong in their tradition of faith.

Speech Team

A Debatable Tradition

Speech Team is not for the faint of heart. You need a strong voice, good posture, and, of course, the ability to cater to a crowd. Joining will ensure candy at every practice and plenty of food on bus rides to competitions. Participants compete in several categories, ranging from prose to the ever-popular debate, year round. However, some competitors had to transition to a new rule—coming up with their speeches only minutes before competition, a feat both intimidating and amazing. But even with that added difficulty, members were enthused with how great this year turned out.

Academic Team

Recalling Traditions of the Past

Knowledge is a powerful thing; the Academic Team proves that. With old studying habits and new interesting material, the team was prepared for the competition ahead. In the end, all of their hard work paid off. Both the English and Science teams advanced to the state competition this year and made us proud of their accomplishments. As members learned about Western Expansion, they began to expand their own horizons by making new friends, having a great time, and learning something new.

Spell Bowl

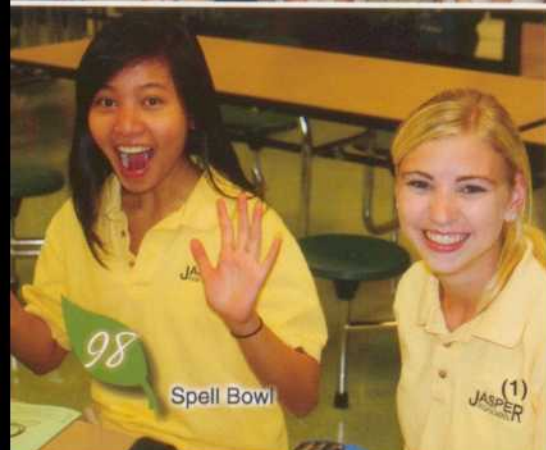

Spelling out Traditions

To make it far in competitions, the Spell Bowl team takes on morning practices with Mrs. Schnell, who happens to bring desserts for the participants for some spelling motivation. They compete at Heritage Hills in the beginning of October for a district competition. Eating beforehand and meeting at the school to leave is just something they do the same every year. Mrs. Schnell hopes to see her team members improve their spelling, not only for the competitions, but also for themselves as well.

Robotics/Motorsports

Transitioning to New Technology

Jasper has always had a strong tradition of students that excel in engineering, robotics, and automotives. This club both meets and challenges that tradition. Both robotics and motorsports deal with engineering, while motorsports focuses on the automotive side, and robotics deals more with computer programming. Both, however, require a lot of creativity and skill.

BPA

Business is our Tradition

BPA stands for Business Professionals of America. The BPA is a club designed for students that are interested in pursuing business as a career. BPA goes to competitions where they compete against other teams from other schools. They compete in things like keyboarding skills and video production. BPA takes a lot of hard work and concentration. The club showed their competitiveness as 15 members qualified for nationals this past year.

FFA

A Growing Tradition

The FFA, also known as the Future Farmers of America, is a club that focuses on being the backbone of society. They plan on becoming the ones who help grow and raise the food that society needs to function. This club helps students prepare for that future by educating them and having them do activities that will help them better understand what they are going to be doing for America.

Spanish Club

The Traditions of Another World

Spanish Club is a year-round club where students that would like to speak, learn, or understand Spanish culture and language gather to celebrate the Hispanic world. Gina Schuetter, the club sponsor, is also a new teacher at JHS. She is helping the club keep up with tradition while transitioning to new leadership and activities.

French Club

Traditions du Club de Français

French club has long held the tradition of being a fun place to gather and share a laugh with Mr. Rottet and fellow club members. Although the club did not meet very much this year, they still all share a passion for French culture and language.

German Club

Komm Mit! (Come Along)

German Club is a fun way to experiment and learn all about Germany's many traditions. German Club consists of chocolate tastings, watching movies, and a gingerbread building contest. The club is also trying to bring in many new members this year to join in the fun. For this club, food and friends equal fun!

Gaming Club

Playing up the traditions

Gaming Club is an association of gamers who share an interest in not only video games, but board games as well. The club usually hosts around 8-10 people but is open to anybody who is interested in games. Braden Halcomb, Dylan Burger, and James Duden all agree that socializing with people and playing "Magic: The Gathering" is one of their top favorite things to do.

Front row: Braden Halcomb, Emily Winiger, Cristian May, and Jared Collier. Row 2: Dylan Berger, Anthony Hurst, Andrew Bush, and Maxwell Bradley.

Bat Girls

SERVING UP TRADITIONS

The Bat Girls take on the challenging job of feeding and cheering on the baseball team each game. In the concession stand, they not only provide for the team, but also for all the fans. These girls work behind the scenes to make sure that the successful program keeps running smoothly. From dishing out nachos and cheese to grilling burgers and dogs, the Bat Girls carry on the tradition of service.

Ultimate Frisbee Club

TOSSING IN A NEW TRADITION

Ultimate Frisbee Club isn't just a club about a few people throwing a frisbee around. It's a pretty complicated game with various rules and boundaries. It can get intense fast, causing members to form rivalries. Also, due to the lack of equipment needed (1 frisbee), they can play anywhere that there's a lot of space. The club is always looking for new members to join in their competitive game.

Pep Band

Pepping up our Traditions

Pep Band at JHS is a tradition all in itself. Freshmen members are expected to attend at least half the games, and upperclassmen get to choose. Those who play enjoy setting the tone and energy for the crowd and team. Pep Band is a lot more than just sitting in the bleachers playing music for the basketball and football teams; they're all about having fun. Along with playing their hearts out at games, they also represent JHS at competitions.

What is your TRADITION?

Pep Band's traditions are pretty simple. Every year when the time comes, Mr. Keeley assigns A and B for the freshmen, that way they're only going to half of the games. There are also traditions with the music that is played. Songs like "Tequila" or "Zombie Nation" and even "Kern Kraft" are some of the pieces the band plays at just about every game. And what would JHS be without "Hey, Baby!"?

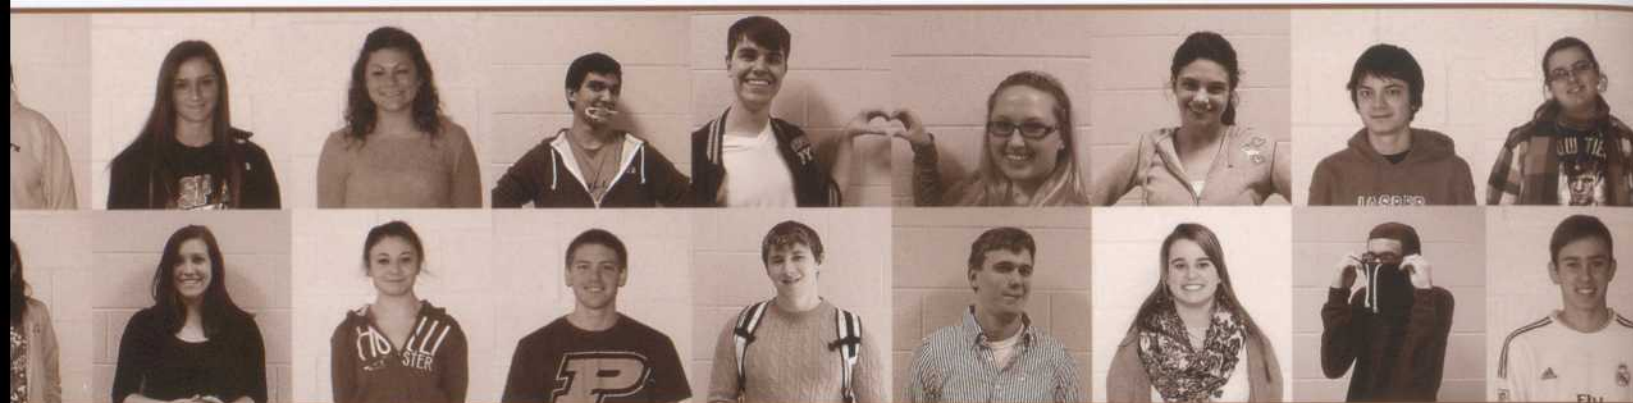

Marching Band

A Tradition of "Angelic" Sound

It's no secret that the Jasper Marching Wildcats have talent and tradition—the band has made it to the state finals for the past 23 years in a row. Following the big win from the 2012 championship season, every member of the band had a lot to work for. With their show "Angelic Voices" (also known as "Divine Messengers"), a sequel to the 2012 show "Trinity", the Marching Wildcats placed fourth out of the ten bands that triumphed over all 28 Class B bands in Indiana.

Band director James Goodhue talks to the band about the ending of their show the morning of state finals. After learning a small new portion of the show over the last week of the season, Mr. Goodhue decided to stick with the ending the band had originally learned and leave the newly added segment out of the show.

What is your TRADITION?

The Marching Wildcats consider each other one big family. Each year on the last Thursday night practice before semi-state, all of the seniors perform skits before standing in front of the band to say words of encouragement or tell a story from their past four years in marching band. Afterwards, the seniors choose a song to play while the band members hug each other. Mr. Goodhue calls this tradition the "love fest".

Symphonic Band

A Symphony of Traditions

Symphonic band is the pinnacle of our high school's music perfection. It's a rigorous class, in which utter dedication and participation from its members are required. Every year they participate in a traditional concert that involves many of the high school bands around Indiana. However, each year is a mixed bag for the band, as seniors graduate and underclassmen join every year. Thus the band transitions to new levels every year as young students rise to meet the challenge of the traditions set by their predecessors.

Nellie Mowat (9) plays her alto saxophone during a symphonic band practice.

Symphonic band clarinets Leah Mauder (11), Elizabeth Magee (11), and Madelyn Keller (11).

Bradley Gehlhausen (12) hits some low notes during a symphonic band practice.

What is your tradition?

In symphonic band, the students are driven to work hard the whole semester. They all help pick the pieces of music to play for the two performances they do. The first performance is their qualification for state, which is in Evansville. The second one is a state performance which is held in Indianapolis. Usually after state, the band will get together for a late night snack at Denny's!

Concert Band

A Classic Tradition

Concert band practices hard to be able to perform exceptional music in concert and for the graduation ceremony. They have what it takes to make sure the music they perform is as close to perfect as possible to get the score they deserve. Even though they are very serious about their music, these students really know how to have fun. They develop great, lasting friendships while sharing music as well as laughter.

What is your tradition?

Traditions in concert band are fairly simple. They spend a lot of time preparing for their performance by sight reading music, practicing it during band class every day, and even a couple after school practices. They are determined to make sure it's perfect. The band travels to a different school to participate in a concert where they are judged on their performance. Once that's over, they focus on music for the graduation ceremony.

Aimee Scott (12) sits through a practice in her concert outfit.

Haley Hostetter (10) plays her French horn during their performance.

COLORFUL COURAGE

Guard is much more than just dancing and throwing flags, sabres, and rifles in the air while the band plays a song or two. It takes synchronization and a certain courage to be a member of the color or winter guards—how would you feel looking up at a hard, blunt object falling towards you, hoping it lands in your two hands and not anywhere else? "It was absolutely terrifying going into the first practice of something I'd never done before," Senior Emily Fleming, a four-year member of both the color and winter guards, remembers. "Throwing a flag for the first time was scary, but you just have to go for it! After freshman year and learning all the basics of color guard, I began to love it my sophomore year when I got on the rifle line."

GUARD

FEARLESS TRANSITIONS

The guard was lucky to have former Jasper guard and current Boston Crusaders Drum Corps member, Chase Braun, as a new staff member this year. The girls can only hope he returns to help each year.

Choir

Voicing our Traditions

Angelic voices greet anyone who walks into the choir room; well angelic voices, idle chatter, and bursts of laughter, that is. Thanks to the teachings of Ms. Burns, choir students are able to perfect their voices and share them with the world. Each class and practice involves vocal warm-ups, like singing "Homeward Bound", and lots of student bonding. This year, the choir performed many activities for our school, including concerts, pep rallies, the Veterans' Day Assembly, and graduation.

(Above Left) The choir dances and sings along with the theater during a pep rally.

"The only thing better than singing, is more singing!" -Ella Fitzgerald

What is your TRADITION?

Choir traditions include traveling to a baseball game in April, selling chocolate roses on Valentine's Day, selling tickets to different games, and, of course, singing in school events.

Performing Arts

Acting on Tradition

JHS Performing Arts has a long standing tradition of attracting students who have a natural talent for acting. With the help of Mrs. Luebbehusen, the theater successfully performed, 9 to 5, The Polar Express, Happy Days, and Stinky Kids this year.

Asya Hildenbrand (12) starred as Pinky in "Happy Days".

Vanessa Hickman (11) played Lori Beth in "Happy Days".

Larry Burgess (10) was a favorite for his performance as "The FonZ" in "Happy Days".

With seniors, David Birge, Cameron Craven, Josh Fleck, Asya Hildenbrand, Megan Hoffman, Alex Hurm, Dallas Jones, Emily Jones, Madi Kemker, Luke Lottes, Brooke Leuken, Nick Montee, Jasmine Seitz, Jared Valuch, and Alec Vennekotter leading the way, the underclassmen have learned a great deal. Thank you to all the younger performing arts members, Antoinette Birge, Larry Burgess, Kelsey Graman, Simeon Harris, Kate Hauersperger, Vanessa Hickman, Kyle Hollinden, Piper Keusch, Nicole Kress, Kaylee Miles, Priscilla Olsen, Travis Onyett, Hannah Rydberg, Kara Skorge, Elizabeth White, and Kortnea Zajauskas.

Breaking Records and Traditions

Although they lost two great seniors and a team favorite, Abby Fleck, after she moved to Evansville, the girls were more than ready to take on another season. With head coach Jenae telling them they had a team that could do big things, the girls took the hard practices and didn't complain. Four girls in particular pushed their hardest in the 200 medley relay and broke a record that had been held by the same group of legendary girls for the past 7 years.

Rachel, who has been swimming since she was only 9 years old, got to get back into the pool this season after a rough year off. "I had a tumor behind my eye. I had 4 procedures done so I could swim again, but they failed." Because the procedures failed, Rachel had to sit out of swimming her junior year. When she finally got back in the water, she felt as if she was on top of the world. "It was something I never could have dreamed of happening." From her experiences, Rachel has learned not to take anything for granted and to do her best any chance she gets. She tells underclassmen, "Never give up on something you want. Trust in the bigger plan and that trust will lead you to something even bigger than you ever asked for."

In previous years, the boys swim team had been on the pool deck to cheer alongside the girls before the sectional meet, but a change of rules forced them to stay in the stands. The separation proved to not be all bad, however, when the new tradition of dressing up for the big meet was created. This year, the boys, dressed as superheroes, cheered on the girls from the stands!

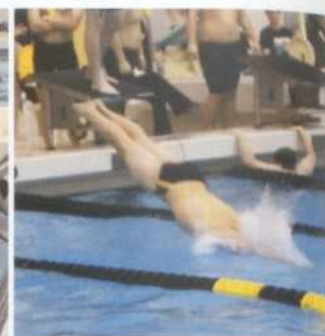

What is your TRADITION?

One could list any number of traditions that the boys team does every year, from the rigors of morning practice, the diligence and avoidance of junk food during tapering, and the infamous dyeing (cont. at bottom right)

Catchy Clothing

Kids today wear a variety of clothing. Well, at least the girls do. Both boys and girls shop a lot at Abercrombie & Fitch, Hollister, Aeropostle, and American Eagle, or, that's what we see a lot of! Boys are often seen styling jeans or shorts, sweatshirts or t-shirts, and tennis shoes. Girls, however, wear everything from t-shirts and jeans to dresses. Some wear skirts and a top, and shorts, as well. A girl's closet has a lot of time and effort put into it. They also wear different types of shoes, like sandals, cute flats or heels.

Trending Technology

Students today spend a lot of time on Facebook, Twitter, Instagram, Snapchat, Netflix, you name it, they're probably on it. Social media has become a big part of our lives, and it's up to us to use it wisely.

Snapchat

Snapchat is a really simple gimmick; it's an app that makes it easier to send pictures or videos, with text, to another person, however, there's a time limit on the picture/text and senders also have limited space to type a message. Regardless, everyone enjoys it!

Facebook

Facebook is the place to go to unleash all your inner pointless drama. No matter how tired or bored we get of it, we still love it. It helps us communicate better and faster with others, and also keeps people in touch from farther distances.

Vine

Everyone loves vine whether they admit it or not. Vine is an app that allows you to create a six second video about whatever. People all over have taken advantage of this opportunity and make the attempt to become 'Vine Famous'.

Twitter

Tweets on Twitter have nothing to do with a bird, although their logo is a little blue one. Twitter is a more simple version of Facebook; you share a thought and someone else along the site can re-tweet it (share it). It's also a site to help you see what your favorite celeb is up to that day!

Pinterest

If you want to let your inner thoughts of crafts and design go loose, Pinterest is the place for you! You can Pin (share) ideas that you or others could possibly be interested in!

Skype allows users to be as far away as Alaska and beyond still have a face to face conversation. Video and audio quality have a lot to do with the quality of wifi, however, it is a great way to communicate with people you don't get to see every day.

Instagram

Online photo sharing has become a popular trend. People enjoy creating online photo albums on Instagram, editing photos, and sharing with friends. You can also create videos to post online.

Tomorrow?

Mr. Dodd's first period class had the most students dressed up for Career Dress Up Day with 100% participation! They were rewarded with donuts and lots of strange looks throughout the day.

What does your future career look like?

"It's exciting, and I can't wait to get to college and get out of here."

-Chris Hohn, Senior.

Many high schoolers have a hard time answering this question seriously. High school is a time to figure out what you're good at and what you enjoy in life. However, others have known for a long time what they want to do and are working hard for it every day. Some want to be a superhero at a young age, like 7, but in our teen years, we come up with better ideas like being an artist or even a harmonica player! Once we leave the dramatic but amazing high school years and go on to a career or to college, dreams become reality. It's important to dream big now, but just as important to make good decisions that will affect your future in a positive way and help you reach your goals. While we may transition from this to that when considering career paths, it's important to remember that we're just high schoolers trying to reach our life goal.

So have fun, make good choices, and dream big!

Diego Espinosa

Diego (11) jokes that he wants to be a trophy husband: a husband that sits there in the relationship as the wife does every chore, and still looks good.

Audrey Soellner (9) wants to be an early childhood development teacher.

Steffen Fidler

Steffen Fidler (11) shows us how to dream big by aspiring to be the president of Germany.

Dakota Mackey (9) is thinking about becoming a mechanic in the future.

Evelin Aleman

Evelin (9) would like to become a photographer when she finishes school.

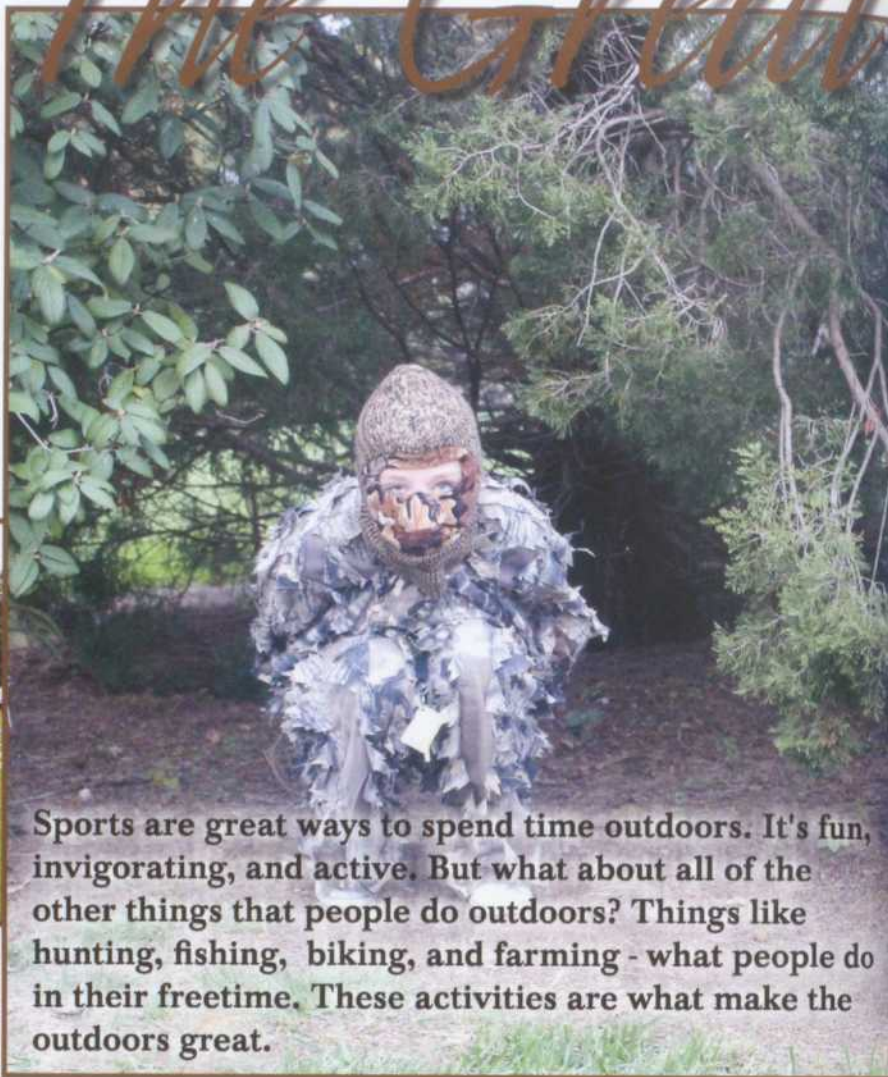

Alana Rasche (11) states that she wants to be an artist.

Delaney Saalman (9) says that she not only wants to be a director/model, but also the most popular person in the world.

The Great

Sports are great ways to spend time outdoors. It's fun, invigorating, and active. But what about all of the other things that people do outdoors? Things like hunting, fishing, biking, and farming - what people do in their freetime. These activities are what make the outdoors great.

Redneck or City Slicker?

"I'm definitely a city slicker," says Delaney Saalman (9).

"I think I'm a redneck, somewhat," Jesse Fromme (9) states.

"I'm a city slicker," declares Adam Hedinger (9).

(Bottom Right) Adam Krempp (9) participates in FFA week by driving his tractor into the school parking lot.

Outdoors

Video Games or Nature's Finest?

"Video games," shrugs Courtney Mills (10).

"I'd go outside," says Shraavan Bandaru (11).

"I'd rather play video games outside," says Luke J. Hochgesang (12).

One of the more common things students do after hours, generally on the weekends, is going to friends' houses. These lovely ladies happened to be at a friend's watching movies! (Left to right) Kristen Mitchell and Courtney Ross. (not pictured: Olivia June)

2. (picture two)

"After hours, I'm usually working at Papa Johns. On the days I'm not, I'm working out or playing basketball/volleyball at the park with my friends."
-Kristen Mitchell (12)

3. (picture three)

Something that not many students do, is band. Band consist of hard work and hardly any free time. Beautiful music wafts over the school from the back parking lot on Tuesdays, Thursdays at night, or Saturdays in the mornings and/or the afternoons. But that's just during band season.

4. (picture four)

2. (picture two)

The students who are a part of BOSCO are also part of the Catholic Heart Work Camp. The kids there have Bible time, do activities, or just hang out. (Left to right) Mallory Schnaus and Catherine Bell.

3. (picture three)

Lots of students these days enjoy a good concert. It's not like middle school where your parents have to tag along, and it is definitely a blast to spend time with friends and listen to your favorite band(s). (Left to right) Mariah Moeller, Abby Pierce, and Erin Moser.

4. (picture four)

If you see someone you know from school at Walmart, either they're actually doing some shopping, or they're causing chaos or, in some cases, organization. Two students decided to reorganize the candy in a bin at the store one night. The two girls who had their hands in this: Courtney Ross and Audra Tart.

A large group of students are shown in a crowd, many wearing red, white, and blue clothing with stars and stripes. They are cheering and smiling, with some pointing towards the camera. The background is slightly blurred, showing more students and the setting of a football game.

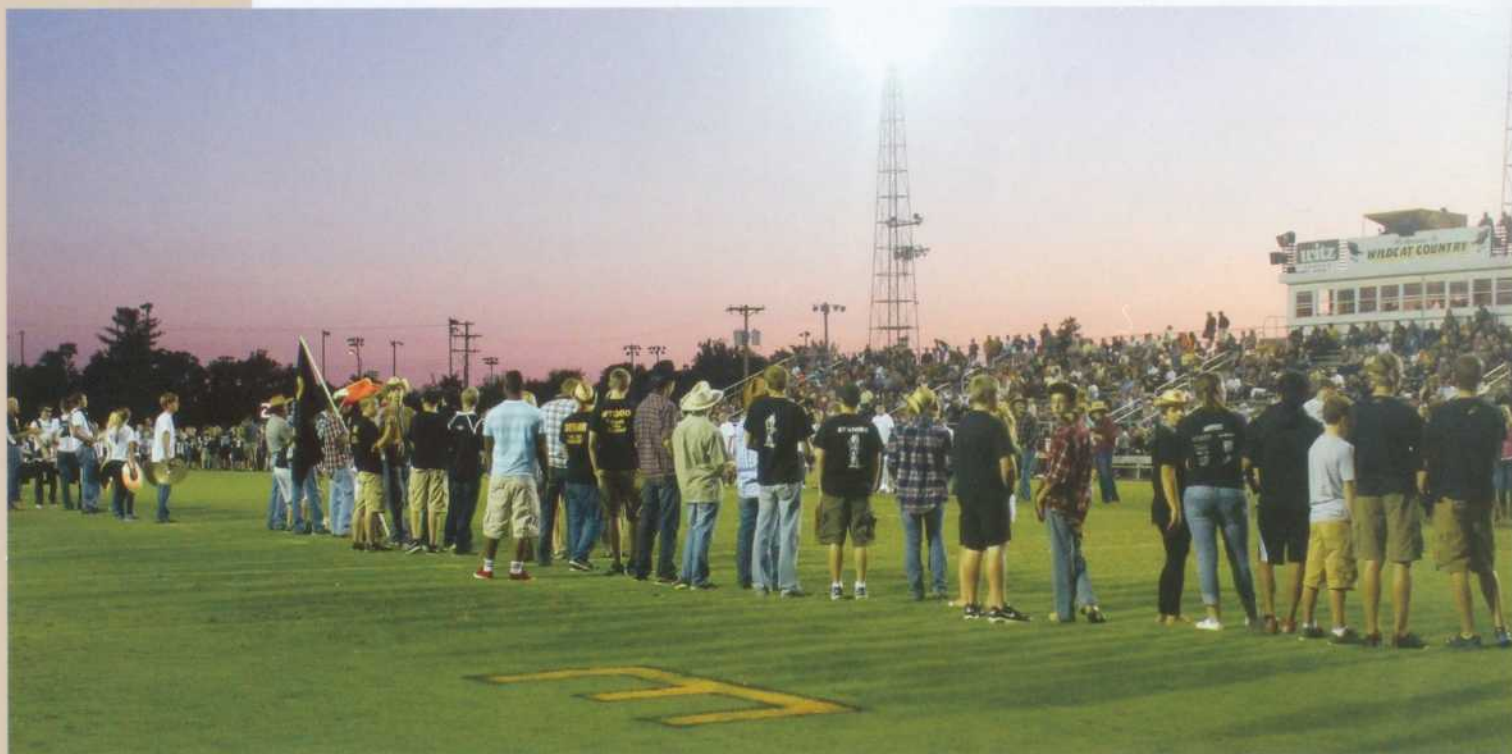

Juniors Bailee Seifert, Tyler Begle, and Elizabeth Day along with senior Annie Stenftenagel and sophomore Mariah Hundley do the "Ben Moore" during the American-themed football game. Ben is a junior who is famous not only for shooting an imaginary arrow into the crowd after a great play in the 2013 baseball season, but also for his skill on the football field.

Seniors Gina Kiefer, Mackenzie Burke, Hannah Hochgesang, Karlie Eckert, Aubree Arvin, Luke Hochgesang, and Eli Seng along with junior Savannah Kerstiens enjoy supporting their team as well as their country with the ever popular American theme. The 6th Man cheered their team on to a Class 3A Boys' Basketball Sectional victory in 2014!

Football Homecoming

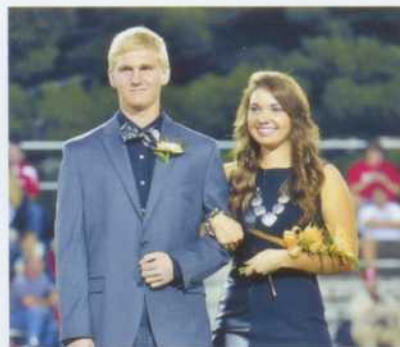

An excited fan base awaits JHS football players as they make their way on to the field. Although much of Homecoming is focused on the crowning of royalty, after the excitement of the crowning moment, there is still a game to be won. The newly crowned king and queen enjoyed presiding over the winning Wildcats and their dedicated fans.

Veterans Day Program

Honor, Integrity, and Personal Courage

On Veterans Day, Jasper High School put on a program created by Mrs. Schum, Mrs. Burns, Mrs. Schnell, and Mr. Helming.

During the program, Mrs. Terwiske talked about her youngest son, Alec, registering in the United States Army. She talked about how her son told her he was going into the army and how she felt when she found that her son had died when a bomb went off while he was driving a truck.

The importance of having this program is to show our pride and thanks for our country. It is also so the students can thank those who are and have served for our country.

Every year, the band and choir perform to honor our country and our Veterans. A new tradition of the program is having the students sign a thank you letter during their English class, thanking the Veterans.

The student body and teachers are very grateful to Mrs. Terwiske for coming to speak and being willing to share her emotional story. Everyone also appreciated all the Veterans from every branch of the military who were present for the program.

Veteran Teachers:

Mr. Fowler-
Served in the United States Army as a Military Policeman for 2 years.
He recieved a Vietnam Veteran Ribbon along with a bronze star.

Mr. Helming-
Served in the Army National Guard for 6 years.
He recieved an award for serving in Iraq along with other awards.

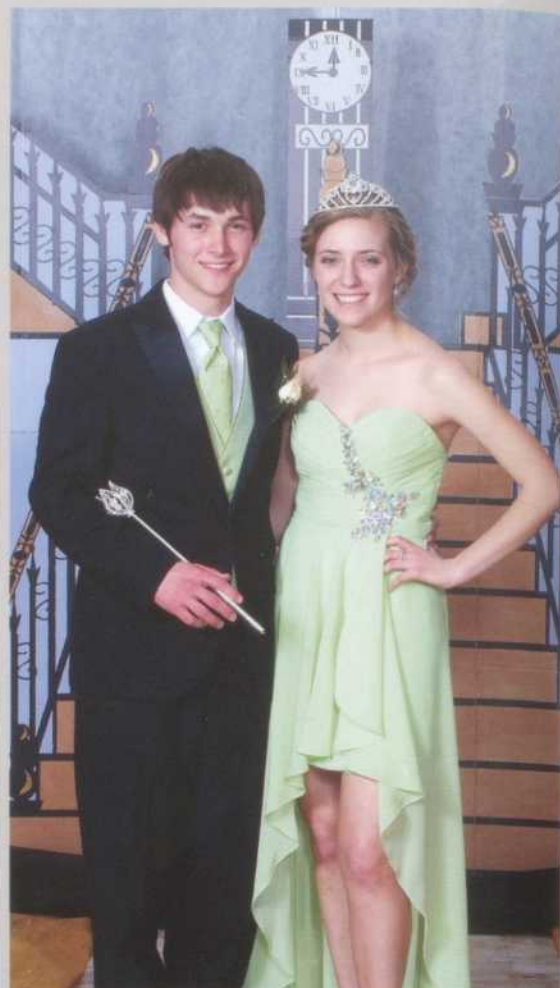

Prom on the Titanic!

Crowning the Royalty:

The nominees for prom king and queen were Avery Charron and Spencer Otto; Chloe Sibrel and Eli Seng; and Jacob Day and Sarah Jasper. The nominees for the prince and princess were Tessa Wohlberg and Ben Moore, and DaKota Brewer and Rachel Sternberg. The winners for Prince and Princess were Ben and Tessa, while Jacob and Sarah won King and Queen!

Post Prom

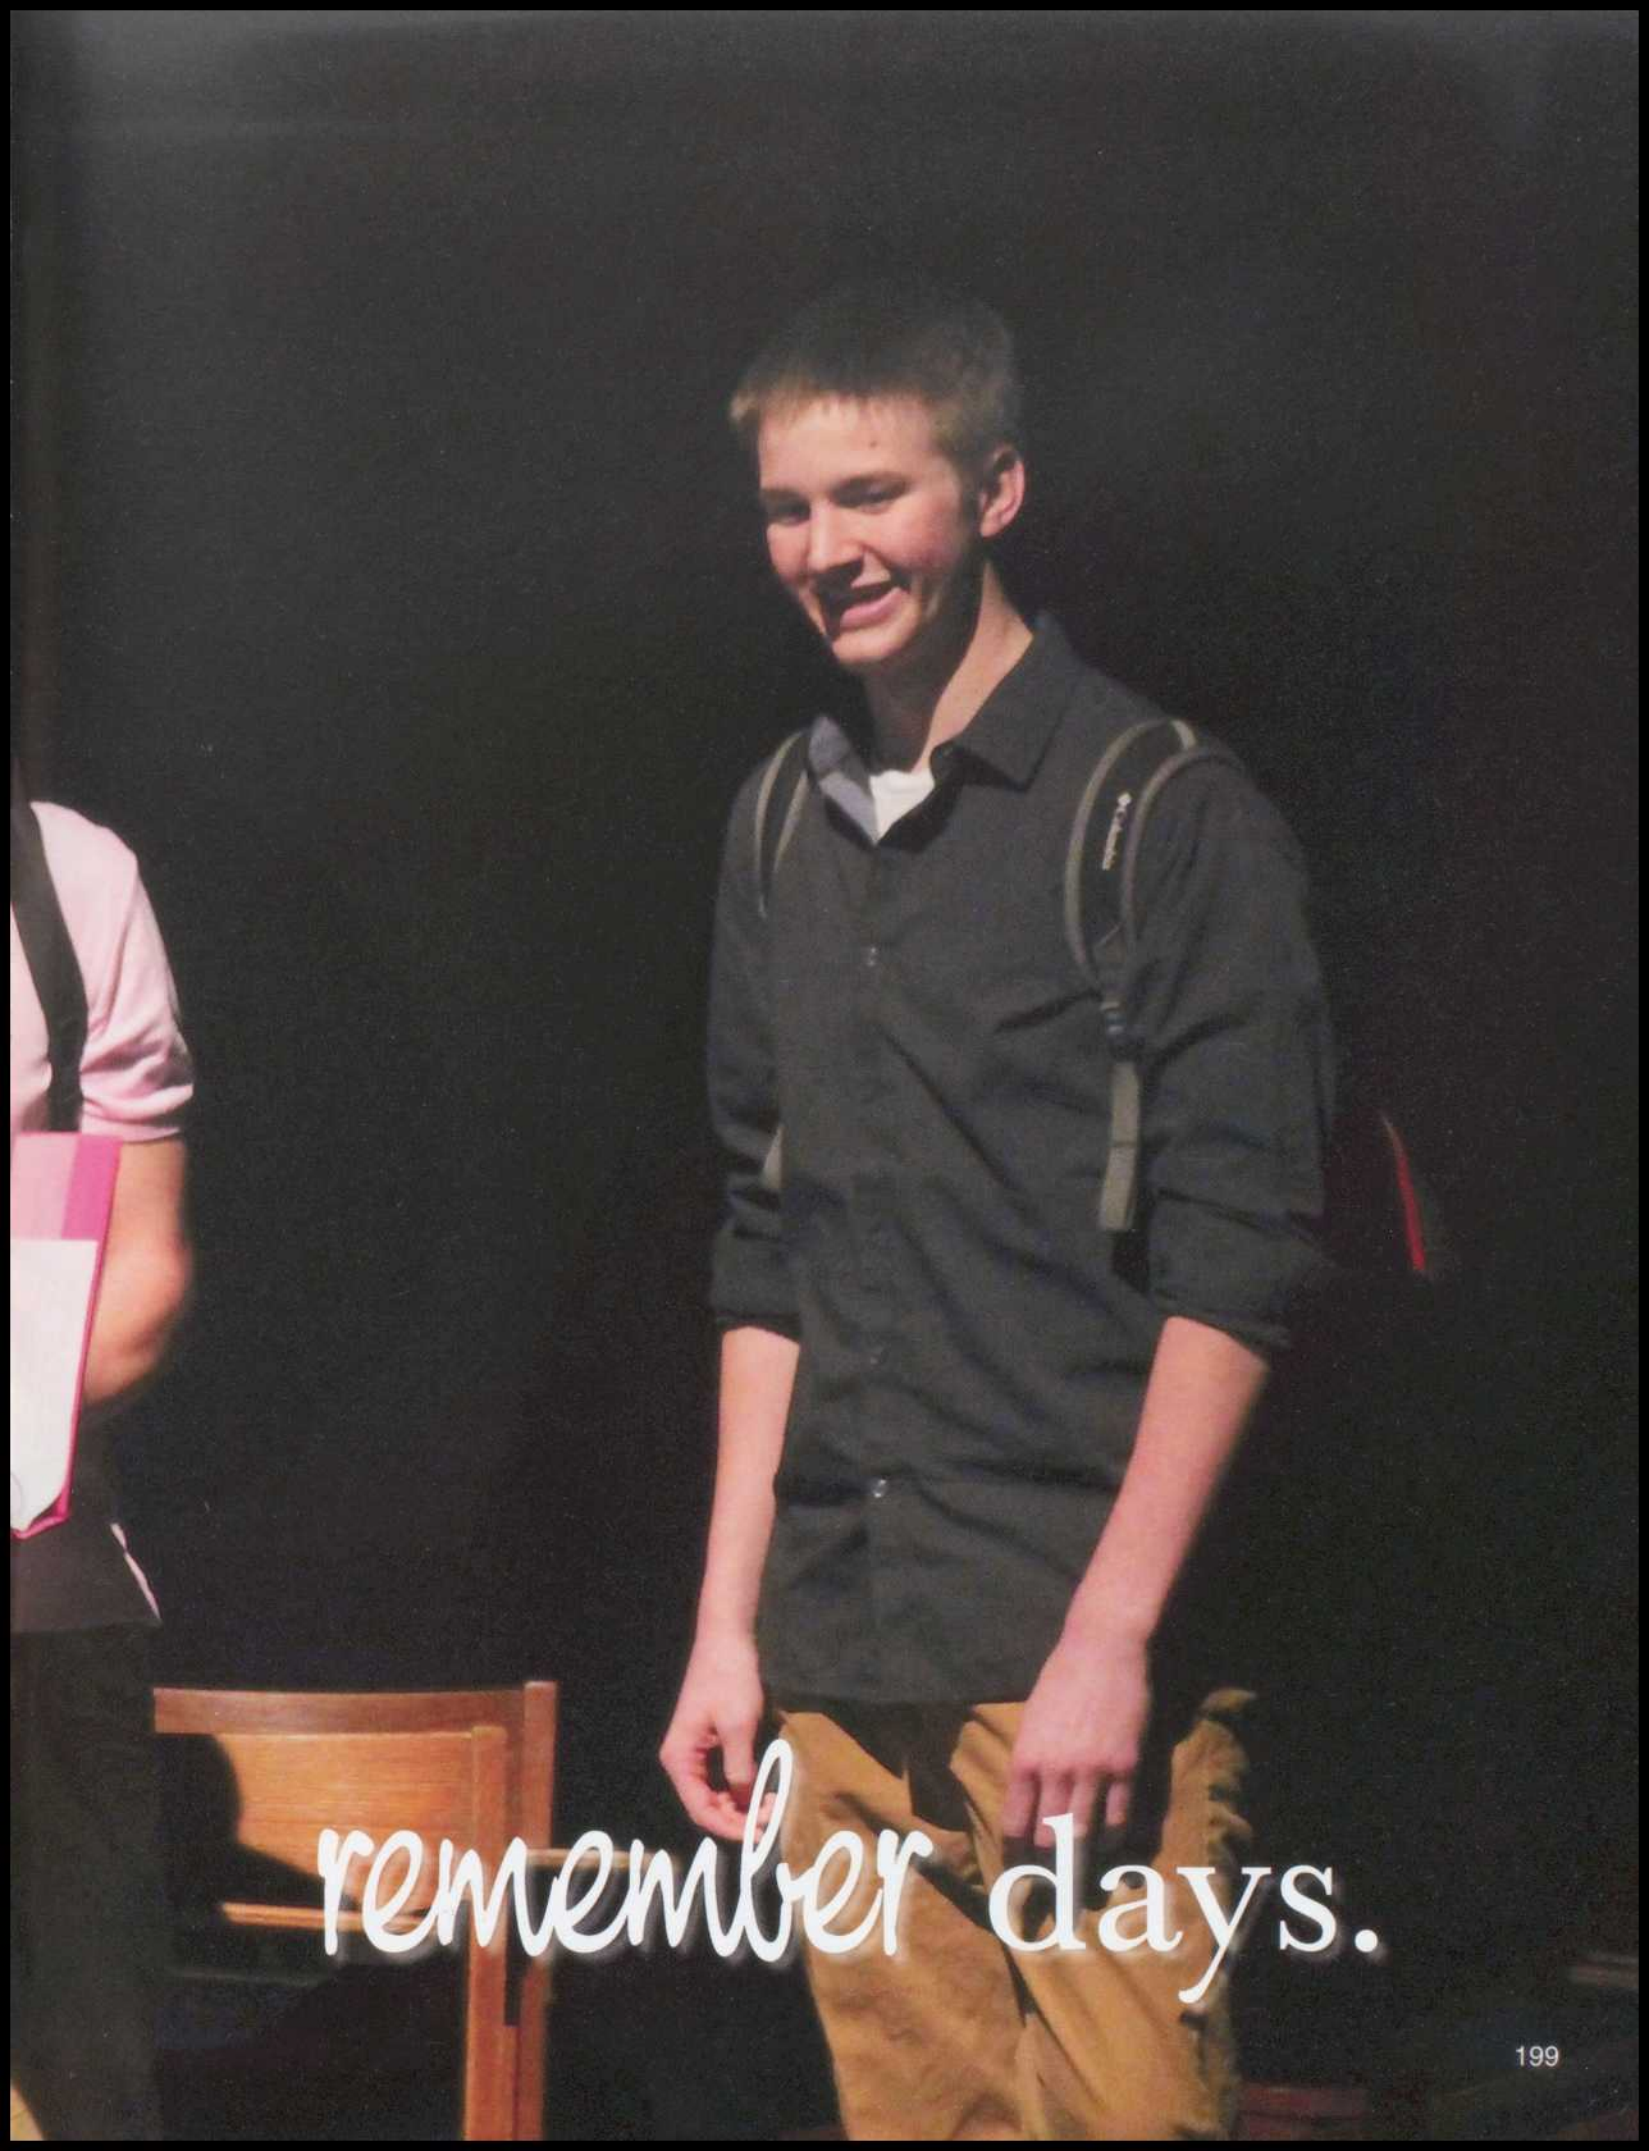

Post prom consists of various activities and games for students to play and compete. Some activities include glow in the dark volleyball, bungee run, soccer tennis, and even ping pong (games vary with the years). Along with the casino area with card games from Black Jack to horse races, students have the opportunity to win 'fake' prize money which they can use to get prizes at the end of the night. All in all, this night is about having fun.

MOMENTS.

ER Congratulations

A large crowd of graduates in black gowns and caps is seen from behind, throwing their caps into the air. The caps are flying high, creating a dynamic scene. In the background, a large black curtain serves as a backdrop, with a stage area visible on the left. The stage features a podium, a blue flag, and several large vases of yellow flowers. A person is standing at the podium. Above the stage, a large screen displays a graduation cap. The overall atmosphere is celebratory and energetic.

Yearbook

The Jasper High School yearbook is put together by a group of people who dedicate their year to interviews, pictures, and completion of your yearbook. This year's seniors are Leah Hughes, Audra Tart, and Chris Hahn. They are joined by juniors Travis Love and Mariya Merkley, and freshmen Abigail Hopf, Haleigh Foster, Faith Fischer, Lexi Hooks, Heather Navarette, Aiden Kay, Katie Scarlett, and Saoirse Byrne. They were under the instruction of Mrs. Kathy Overton who was assisted by Mrs. Abby Kennedy. The class would also like to give a shout out to 8th grader Jack Greener and everyone else who provided us with pictures and stories.
